Schoolgirl Beauties Reign Over Mansfield Relays Today

Against a background of stellar track performers from some 40-odd Ohio high schools, these five Mansfield high school girls will reign at the 14th running of the Mansfield Relays at Stadium field this afternoon, in accordance with the Relays custom of naming a queen and five attendants. They will present awards to winning individuals and teams, as the events are run off.

Claim Thrust By Norwegian Route Planned

Germany "Frustrated" Scheme Through Earlier Invasion of Denmark and Norway, Von Ribbentrop Says In Fourth White Book.

BULLETIN

BUDAPEST—(AP)—A German airplane is en route to the Hungarian capital with a communication from the German government, it was disclosed this afternoon. It was understood that a similar communication also was being transmitted to other governments of southeastern Europe.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN—Alleged documentary proof that Great Britain and France, with the "tacit collusion" of Norway, had completed full plans for a lightning invasion of Germany by way of Scandinavia on April 6 was presented to foreign diplomats and correspondents by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop today.

In justification for Germany's invasion of Denmark and Norway three days later which he said "frustrated" the Allied plans, Von Ribbentrop issued "German White Book No. 4"—a volume replete with photostats and documents designed to show that Norway had agreed to the Allied thrust rather than "get caught fighting on the wrong side of the fence."

Sweden, on the other hand, Von Ribbentrop said, has given proof of her earnest desire to preserve neutrality.

He inferred, however, that "machinations" of British agents are in evidence there as well as elsewhere in Scandinavia.

Alleged reports from British consular and espionage agents in Norway, together with purported transcript of an Allied staff plan known as "Stratford Project No. 38" were included in the white book.

Only a short time before, the German government had formally announced that a state of war has existed between Norway and the reich since Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's occupation of that country met with armed resistance.

Addressing himself to the assembled gathering in the ambassadors' chamber of the chancellery as the constituted spokesman of Hitler, Von Ribbentrop said:

"On the third of September last year, the Allied powers declared war on Germany, with the object of shattering the reich and reducing her to a position of international impotence.

"From the beginning, they realized it would be impossible to smash German resistance on the west wall. They have tried therefore to spread the war to other fronts."

The white book embraced documents taken from British officers captured in Norway and from secret archives in Oslo. The volume was intended to prove "once and for all" that Great Britain intended to seize Norway and Denmark and then attack the

Two Killed In Shelby, Mifflin Mishaps

Men Die In Crossing, Highway Accidents

Farm Hand Killed When Auto Crashes Into Freight Train; Mechanic Dies As Wrecker Upsets On Road.

Two traffic accidents at almost the same time last night in the Mansfield area claimed the lives of two men, one in Sharon township south of Shelby and the other a short distance south of Mifflin in Ashland county.

Nick Ganea, 56, a farm hand employed by B. F. Jacobs at Alta, was killed about 10 p. m. when the automobile in which he was a passenger crashed into the side of a Pennsylvania freight train at a crossing on the Shelby-Ontario road, five miles south of Shelby. He was the county's fourth traffic fatality of the year as compared with six at the same time last year.

Vibrant L. Hout, 38, Mifflin garageman, was instantly killed about 9:45 p. m. when the wrecker he was driving plunged into a ditch along the Charles Mill road.

It was believed Hout, who was traveling alone, went to sleep or lost control of the wrecker on a curve. His skull was fractured.

Ganea, a native of Rumania and former employe of the Richland county infirmary, was taken to Shelby Memorial hospital, but was dead on arrival. He also received a fractured skull.

He was riding with Gerald Jacobs, son of his employer at Alta, who was not injured.

Young Jacobs told Deputy

NAME HUSTON

Ohio Common Pleas Judges Elect Him President.

Judge Charles H. Huston, of Mansfield, today was elected president of the Ohio Association of Common Pleas Judges at the organization's annual meeting in Columbus. He succeeds Judge Alfred Mack, of Cincinnati.

Judge Guy B. Findlay, of Elyria, was named first vice president, and Judge Charles A. Leach, of Columbus, second vice president.

Members voted to continue efforts to have the general assembly pass legislation providing funds for the retirement of jurists and to increase salaries of common pleas judges to small counties.

UP TO SENATE

President Makes two More Richland Postmaster Appointments.

Nominations for postmaster appointments at Butler and Fredericktown had been sent to the senate today for confirmation.

President Roosevelt named Lee F. Beveridge for the Butler job and nominated Walter M. Dill as postmaster at Fredericktown. The senate two days ago confirmed the appointment of John B. Kochheiser for postmaster at Bellville.

LOSES $150 IN OLD 'CON GAME'

Aged Mansfield Woman Robbed of Life Savings After Afternoon of 'Prayer.'

Under the ruse that they had been sent to her home for an afternoon of religious mediation and prayer, two women yesterday robbed an aged Mansfield spinster of $150—her life savings.

Miss Kate Hutzelman, 222 North Mulberry street, told police that in the course of the afternoon she was told by the women to place her savings in a small cloth sack. She opened it after the women had left and found nothing but a crumpled piece of newspaper.

The women, one of whom was about 50 years old and the other about 18, Miss Hutzelman said, came to her door shortly before noon and said they had been sent by the church with "instructions to pray for her," Miss Hutzelman said.

She told officers she admitted

High School Poet Confesses Killing 16-Year-Old Girl

ABINGTON, Pa.—A handsome, poetry-writing high school boy wept in jail today and pleaded for permission to see the body of a 16-year-old girl classmate he is charged with killing because he was "jealous."

Robert Heineman, 16, son of a college instructor, was jailed on a murder charge after Assistant District Attorney David E. Groshens said he admitted firing a shot through a window that killed Edith Snyder as she studied in her home Thursday night.

"I was in love with her and she had dates with other boys," Groshens quoted him. "On Sunday she told me she had met the most wonderful boy in the

Tech Shows Power In Relay Preliminaries

(Action Pictures on Page 6)
By CHARLES MARTIN

STADIUM FIELD—Under a bright sun and with ideal weather conditions, the 1940 Mansfield Relays got under way here this morning, with East Tech, pre-meet favorite, showing its expected strength, and a good tip already given that new records would be made before the day was over.

Sprint runners had a slight north wind at their backs, and the track seemed to be in prime condition. Preliminary events were run this morning. Finals are to start at 2 p. m.

Chet Thomas, sprint star from Cleveland East Tech, found the track entirely to his liking as he qualified for the 100-yard dash finals with a time of 10 seconds flat in the semi-finals.

That time equalled the mark he set at Columbus last year to win the 100-yard championship. He ran the race in 10.2 in last year's Relays and won.

Indications that sensational marks might be expected in the shot put came in the preliminary of that event this morning when

German Surprise Attack Takes Toll of French Troops.

PARIS—(U.P.)—A French outpost suffered heavy losses, a military informant said today, in a German surprise attack west of the Vosges mountains.

German artillery of unusually large calibre for such an action opened up on the French outpost and then mine throwers were brought to bear.

German infantry advanced to the attack. The French outpost, hard pressed, called for reinforcements and, with their arrival, the attack was repulsed, it was said.

There was stiff fighting between French and German detachments east of the Moselle river and west of the Vosges mountains. In the Moselle skirmish, patrols fought at close range in no man's land and both sides suffered losses.

Germans Say Soviet Minister Recalled From Sofia.

OFFICIAL: Hitler Declares Germany At War With Norway

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Adolf Hitler in a sweeping proclamation today ended the twilight diplomatic status of the German invasion of Norway by declaring that a state of war exists between the reich and the kingdom of Haakon VII.

Prior to Hitler's surprise move, shrouded in secrecy like many other of his acts, Germany had held the invasion starting April 9 was to "protect" Norway from a similar step which the Germans accused the Allies of planning.

Today the fuehrer declared that the Norwegian government itself had "created a state of war" by resisting Germany.

Only yesterday the foreign press had been told that no state of war existed.

A decree legalizing the appointment of Josef Terboven as governor of occupied areas in Norway revealed Germany's position.

The decree invoked authority of the German police in Norway, a proviso which seemed especially significant since it opened the way for Heinrich Himmler's famed secret police, which were effective in quelling civilian opposition in Poland.

Hitler attempted to put blame for the war on Premier Johan Nysgaardsvold's government, say-

RALLY: Allies Claim Nazis Driven Back Near Trondheim

BULLETIN

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—German columns smashing ahead across central Norway from Roeros toward Storen and on Dombaas were reported in Swedish dispatches to be moving with such amazing speed today as to endanger British-French and Norwegian positions in the entire Trondheim area.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The situation on the Trondheim front in Norway was described as "stabilized" today by a British military source who added that British patrols had taken prisoners.

Describing action south of Dombaas, this source declared that the Germans were "beaten back with heavy loss."

Later the Nazis returned to attack and the British, under heavy mortar and machine-gun fire—evidently from strafing German aircraft—withdrew and "took less exposed positions," according to this British source.

This action took place near Kvam, southeast of Otta near the Dombaas railroad, it was said, and Allied troops were reported to be in considerable strength southeast of Dombaas.

This source declared that Norwegian troops were at Voss in the Bergen area fighting off twin German attacks. One attack was said to be by infantry advancing along the railroad from Bergen, the second by fresh troops landed in Hardanger fjord.

(A German communique declared Voss had been captured from Norwegian forces.)

The British press warned the public to expect setbacks for Allied forces in Norway until the naval, air and land forces are marshalled to their full

Sunday News-Journal Finds Its Way to Far Away Points—Even to Papa Dionne

EVEN Papa Dionne reads the Sunday News-Journal!

It happened this way:

Among the fan letters he received recently was one written on Mansfield-Leland hotel stationery by a traveling salesman who stopped here. He wrote that he saw pictures of the famous quintuplets in the Sunday edition and was sending along a copy of the paper. And, of course, Papa Dionne read it (from cover to cover, we hope).

A photostatic copy of the letter as well as the story of Oliva Dionne's reaction to it appears in the June issue of "True" a Country Press publication.

In his letter, the salesman explained that although he had been married 30 years he was the father of only one child. Papa Dionne is reported to have exclaimed: "Poor fellow!"

But you're a lucky fellow if

you don't have to wait for a fan to send you your copy of The News-Journal Sunday edition. For, besides the regular feature on the Quintuplets which this week describes how Dr. Dafoe has corrected their foot troubles, there are other features, such as regular columns by Dorothy Kilgallen, Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen, Emily Post, Dr. Garry C. Myers, Joan Durham, and local columns on theater news and politics.

Add to these, local features, many of them illustrated, covering subjects that range from stars to furrows.

Mansfield has a number of amateur astronomers who nightly watch the course of stars across the sky and who can spot a constellation quicker than Sir Walter Raleigh could spot a queen at a mud puddle. Tomorrow, read Robert E. Rogers' story of how, with homemade telescopes, they do detec-

HONEST, ZERO... I'M SO MIXED UP TODAY... I DUNNO IF I'M GOIN' TO SCHOOL OR COMIN' HOME FROM SCHOOL
I FEEL LIKE LAFFIN' AN' CRYIN' AT THE SAME TIME... I GOT THE WIM-WAMS, 'CAUSE DAD BLAMIT HAS GONE BACK TO LIVE IN THE DESERT...
AN' I FEEL GLAD ALL OVER 'CAUSE HAPPY HALLE HAS MADE ME PRESIDENT OF THE HAPPY ROAD ARTESIAN WELL CORPORATION...
CROSS MY HEART AN' HOPE TO DIE IF I'M FOOLIN'... RIGHT ON THE DOOR OF THE BIG OFFICE IS PAINTED, "ANNIE ROONEY... PRESIDENT"
DARRELL McCLURE
YES, MA'AM... I'M REALLY, TRULY PRESIDENT OF THE HAPPY ROAD ARTESIAN WELL CORPORATION... MR HAPPY SIGNED A GREAT, BIG PAPER... AN' THEN HE PUT ALMOST $ 1,000,000 IN THE BANK...
A MILLION DOLLARS !!!
YES, MA'AM... THAT'S A TERRIBLE LOTTA MONEY... BUT MR HAPPY SEZ THERE'S A TERRIBLE LOTTA POOR FAMILIES THAT NEED A GRUB-STAKE
4R3
BUT HAPPY IS NOT FAMILIAR WITH DESERT RECLAMATION OR ORGANIZED CHARITY...
OH, THE CORPORATION DON'T GIVE NO CHARITY... JUST GRUBSTAKES
DARRELL McCLURE
BUT MR HAPPY THINKS CHARITY IS GRAND... HE SEZ... IT'S MORE FUN GIVIN' SOMEBODY A DOLLAR THAN ASKIN' SOMEBODY FOR A DIME."
GOOD MORNING, MISS ROONEY
'MORNIN', MR KLUGGS
GEE, ZERO... SOME FOLKS IS FUNNY... BEFORE I WAS PRESIDENT OF THE HAPPY ROAD ARTESIAN WELL CORPORATION... MR KLUGGS NEVER NOTICED ME AT ALL...
NOW HE TREATS ME TERRIBLE POLITE AN' CALLS ME "MISS ROONEY"... MAYBE THAT'S 'CAUSE I'M THE PRESIDENT OF A RICH CORPORATION
DARRELL McCLURE
MR HAPPY SEZ... WHEN YOU'RE PRESIDENT OF SOMETHIN'... PEOPLE ARE CAREFUL TO CALL YOU "MISS ROONEY"... BUT IF YOU AIN'T PRESIDENT... THEY DON'T CARE WHAT THEY CALL YOU!
4R4
HERE COMES "THE LITTLE PRESIDENT" NOW
I CAN HARDLY BELIEVE MY EYES... SHE'S ONLY A BABY
HAPPY ROAD ARTESIAN WELL CORP.
OFFICE OF PRESIDENT
JUST THE SAME, PARD... SHE'S THE BIG AUGUR THAT BOSSES
SHE'S A KIND-LOOKING CHILD... MAYBE SHE'LL MAKE OUR "DREAM" COME TRUE
PLEASE STAND BACK... DON'T BLOCK THE DOORWAY
OKAY, MR STRAIGHT... I'M SO LITTLE I DON'T NEED MUCH ROOM
DARRELL McCLURE
WHOEVER CAME FIRST... KIN COME IN FIRST... YOU DON'T HAFTA WORRY... MR. HAPPY ALWAYS WANTS TO SEE EVERYBODY WHO WANTS TO SEE HIM 'BOUT GETTIN' A GRUBSTAKE
I'LL BE A HUNGARIAN HOG-CALLER... IF GIVIN' ARTESIAN WELLS IN THE DESERT AS A GRUBSTAKE FOR POOR FOLKS... AIN'T HARDER WORK THAN HARD-ROCK MINING WITH A PICK AN' SHOVEL!!
IN THE GLOAMING
I KNOW IT'S AWFUL HARD WORK... BUT WHEN YOU SEE THE HAPPY LOOKS ON THE PEOPLE'S FACES... I'LL BETCHA IT MAKES YOU FEEL GLAD ALL OVER... LIKE IT DOES ME
YOU'RE PLUMB RIGHT AS USUAL... BUT I'LL BE MIGHTY GLAD WHEN MY BANKS CORRAL THAT ARTESIAN WELL EXPERT AN' SHIP HIM OUT HERE... THEN I'LL HAVE NOTHIN' TO DO... EXCEPT SIGN THE CHECKS
DARRELL McCLURE
BESIDES, I'LL HAVE THE LAUGH ON OLD DAD BLAMIT... HE'S ALWAYS RUNNING OFF INTO THE DESERT... BEFORE I FINISH HE WON'T HAVE ANY DESERT TO RUN OFF TO... I'LL TEACH THAT OLD HORN-TOAD A LESSON
IT'S MEN LIKE HAPPY HALLEE THAT RUINS THE MORTGAGE BUSINESS... LENDIN' MONEY TO TOTAL STRANGERS WITHOUT ANY SECURITY EXCEPT THEIR PROMISE TO PAY... AFTER THEIR FIRST CROP IS SOLD!
GEE, MR KLUGGS... THAT'S THE ONLY WAY YOU KIN HELP 'EM... THEY AIN'T GOT NO MONEY OR ANYTHING... BUT THE ARTESIAN WELL WILL BRING WATER... THEN IF THEY WORK HARD... THE SUN WILL MAKE THE SEEDS GROW... AN' THEN THEY'LL SELL WHAT GROWS FOR MONEY
HUH! WAIT A WHILE... YOU'LL SEE HAPPY IS THROWING HIS MONEY AWAY... NOW IF HE PICKED OUT SMART, EXPERIENCED FARMERS... BUT MOST PEOPLE ARE BORN UNLUCKY... EVERYTHING THEY DO ENDS IN FAILURE
DARRELL McCLURE
WELL... EVEN IF FOLKS AIN'T SMART AN' EXPERIENCED... THEY GOTTA EAT JUST THE SAME... I GUESS IF EVERYBODY WAS SMART AN' LUCKY... THEY WOULDN'T NEED NO CHARITY AT ALL...

A MOVIE? HA! IMAGINE YOU LIKENING YOURSELF TO ANYTHING THAT MOVES! YOU'D BETTER COMPARE YOURSELF TO A BUMP ON A LOG
HE'S GONNA MOVE FROM NOW ON, SOPHIE
COMBINE HARD WORK, DETERMINATION AND PERSEVERANCE AND THERE ARE NO HEIGHTS ONE CAN'T REACH— ONE MIGHT EVEN BECOME PRESIDENT—THAT'S WHAT I PREACH TO COL HOOFER, BUT HE DOESN'T TAKE IT SERIOUSLY, TOOTS
NO WONDER! HE AND I BOTH GOT THE SAME THOUGHT, CASPER— IF YOU'RE SO SMART WHY AREN'T YOU PRESIDENT—?
4-22
JIMMY MURPHY

HOW DO YOU LIKE THIS PHOTO OF ME, COLONEL HOOFER?

GOOD LUCK TO YOU, COLONEL HOOFER. LEAVING NOW, ARE YOU?
YES, MR PLUNKER, I'M GONNA DROP BY THE HOUSE TO SAY GOODBYE TO SOPHIE— AND THEN I'LL BE ON MY WAY, SIR.
DAN, IT'S GOING TO BE LONESOME WITHOUT YOU— I FEEL LIKE CRYING
SOPHIE, IT'S ME WHO SHOULD DO THE CRYING— I'M THE ONE WHO'S STUNG TO GO TO WORK.
JIMMY MURPHY
4-25
AND SO COL HOOFER, THE ROOKIE SALESMAN, HITS THE RAILS FOR A CAREER ON THE ROAD

TOOTS, COL HOOFER HAS GONE ON THE ROAD AS A TRAVELING SALESMAN— IT'S THE FIRST TIME HE'S EVER BEEN AWAY FROM SOPHIE— IN ALL THEIR MARRIED LIFE HE'S NEVER WRITTEN HER A LETTER, BECAUSE HE'S NEVER BEEN AWAY FROM HOME
Copr. 1940 King Features Syndicate, Inc. World rights reserved.
IN FACT, HE ASKED ME HOW TO START A LETTER TO HIS WIFE. HE SAID, 'DO I SAY, DEAR MADAM; DEAR WIFE OR WHAT?' TSK-TSK
CASPER, THIS MORNING, FROM SHEER FORCE OF HABIT I HEAVED A BOOK AGAINST COL HOOFER'S DOOR TO AWAKEN HIM— BEFORE IT DAWNED ON ME HE'S OUT OF TOWN. HE MUST BE UP TO TRICKS, BECAUSE HE HASN'T WRITTEN ME
JIMMY MURPHY
THAT MAN! EVEN WHEN HE'S AWAY THERE'S NO LIVING WITH HIM— HE STILL WORRIES ME
SOPHIE, HE MUST BE TRIPLETS! NO ONE MAN COULD BE SUCH A NUISANCE AS YOU SAY HE IS 4-26

CASPER, HAVE YOU HEARD FROM COL. HOOFER SINCE HE WENT ON THE ROAD FOR US?
NOT A WORD, BOSS, BUT DON'T WORRY! HE'S ON THE JOB.
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
JUST IMAGINE! TWO WHOLE DAYS HAVE PASSED SINCE MY HUSBAND LEFT TOWN AND NO WORD FROM HIM! I WONDER WHAT HE'S UP TO?
DON'T GET UPSET, SOPHIE THE COLONEL MAY BE TOO BUSY TO WRITE— HE'S A BUSINESSMAN NOW YOU KNOW.
YES, AND I'LL BET HIS BUSINESS IS MONKEY BUSINESS
JIMMY MURPHY
MEN ARE ALL ALIKE YOU CAN'T GET ALONG WITH THEM OR WITHOUT THEM— HE UPSETS ME WHEN HE'S HERE, AND HE STILL UPSETS ME WHEN HE'S AWAY.
HE MAY BE ILL, SOPHIE— MAYBE HE'S COLLAPSED FROM TWO CONSECUTIVE DAYS OF WORK.

John L. Lewis Pleads for Negro Political Support

CIO CHIEFTAIN BIDS FOR NEW VOTING POWER

Communists and Major Parties Attacked by Speaker At Colored Congress.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — With an appeal to the organized Negroes of the nation to come in under his political banner, John L. Lewis took another step today toward what he obviously hoped will be an influential position in the presidential campaign.

In the same hall where he beckoned the American Youth Congress to his support last February, the CIO leader last night invited the National Negro Congress to consider a working agreement or affiliation with labor's non-partisan league, the political organization which he heads.

Lewis demanded "that the political leaders of the nation stand by and deliver or give way to those who can."

He charged that the Democratic administration had failed to fulfill its 1936 platform pledge to provide jobs for the unemployed.

John P. Davis, secretary of the congress which heard Lewis, estimated that it represented 3,000,000 Negroes, or one-fifth of the Negro population.

Parties Hit.

From its president, A. Philip Randolph, the congress heard that the Communist party was not concerned with labor and the Negro, that the Republican party was "no longer a progressive force," and that the Democratic party was "no better."

"The Communist party," said Randolph, "is not primarily or fundamentally concerned with the Negro or labor in America, but in fulfilling and carrying out the needs and demands of the consolidation of the foreign position of the Soviet in world politics."

Lewis' speech shared attention with a story in the Washington Post saying that Secretary Ickes had written Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Forth Worth, Texas, Star-Telegram and a Garner-for-president supporter:

"The movement, in which you are such a shining light, is not for the nomination of any particular man. It is to defeat Roosevelt."

Opposes War.

Still another development was a statement by Senator Wheeler (D. Mont.), a Democratic presidential aspirant in case President Roosevelt does not run, that he was opposed to the United States getting into the European war "now, after the election, or any other time."

Wheeler told reporters also that he would not accept a vice-presidential nomination on a ticket with anybody, including Mr. Roosevelt. There had been some talk of a Roosevelt-Wheeler ticket.

Davey Reiterates Pledge To Repeal State Sales Tax

CANTON —(AP)— Former Gov. Martin L. Davey, of Kent, reiterated his pledge to repeal the sales tax "when I am elected governor" as he opend his campaign for the Democratic nomination here last night.

Commenting on how an equal amount of money would be raised if the sales levy were repealed, Davey said:

"We will cross that bridge when we come to it but I will point out that my philosophy of taxation is to tax those who have the capacity to pay."

He praised the national administration, which he sometimes fought while he was governor. He told an audience of 600:

"For the first time within my memory, the White House has been consecrated to the principles of human rights and human needs under President Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Davey said Gov. John W. Bricker "had wrecked civil service in the state."

Ohio Bar Renews Fight on Justice Courts

SUPPORT FOR LEGISLATIVE ACTION URGED

Association Plans Move to Compel All Lawyers to Become Members.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — The Ohio State Bar association today renewed a campaign to eliminate justice of the peace and other small trial courts of Ohio.

Henry G. Binns of Columbus, chairman of a committee assigned to study the matter, urged the bar association to support legislation before the next general assembly to unify Ohio's lower courts.

Binns declared that the increasing number of governmental administrative agencies reflected growing dissatisfaction with some inferior courts.

"The committee feels we can, by legislative action, unify the trial courts in the counties and do away with the multitude of small courts and give to the poor man a chance to have an equal brand of justice at the same or less cost," he told the lawyers.

The bar association unsuccessfully sponsored a bill in 1935 to abolish justice courts and give common pleas courts authority to act in minor cases.

The association resolved to ask the legislature to make all attorneys notaries public and empower them to use their commission in any county of the state.

The association will conduct a referendum among its 5,000 members on a proposal to compel every attorney to be a member of the state association. If the majority approves, the plan will be submitted for the approval of the Ohio supreme court which can put it to a referendum of all the attorneys in the state, totaling about 10,000.

Up and Down THE STREET

Fred Haag, city plumbing inspector, has been taking a good deal of ribbing from fellow workers in the health department in the past few days. Joining the ranks of those in the absent-minded professor class, Fred slipped a cigaret in his mouth the other day and walked over to the drinking fountain to get a drink. He forgot all about the cigaret. It got a dousing and the wet tobacco was smeared over his mouth.

Yesterday's mail brought Louise M. Reese the loveliest of gifts which were in recognition of her loyalty and work with the League of Young Democratic Club of Ohio, from which she retired as secretary on Jan. 27 after serving two years. She received a gold cigaret case and a vanity. Both were in satin-finish yellow gold and the cigaret case is embellished with two dachshounds in rhinestones and sapphires. Engraved on the back of each is the inscription: "Louise M. Reese, secretary League of Young Democratic Clubs of Ohio, 1938-39."

Boyd Robinson, county superintendent of schools, had almost enough tin cans on his hands today to start a small cannery, but the cans all had slots in the tops. Through a mix-up in distributing coil collectors for the Children's Crusade for Children, a big supply of the coin cans were shipped to Robinson for distribution to county schools. But the schools received their own cans, leaving the county superintendent with dozens of them that he didn't know what to do with.

CHICAGO WOMAN AWARDED MEDAL

Rescue Suicide-Bent Father And Baby Daughter From Lake Michigan Waves.

PITTSBURGH — (U.P.) — A 24-year-old Chicago housewife who risked death to rescue a suicide-bent laborer and his baby daughter from Lake Michigan was honored today by the Carnegie Hero Fund commission.

Mrs. Yolsada G. Fabri was one of 13 persons awarded bronze medals for acts of heroism.

The commission also awarded a total of $750 for educational purposes in three cases and in seven cases distributed $3,000 for the purchase of homes or other purposes.

When Edward A. Dressen, 36, described by the commission as temporarily deranged, holding his daughter, Patricia, 2, in his arms, jumped from a wall into the lake and, after a struggle with Dressen, wrested the child from him.

After placing the child safely on the wall, Mrs. Fabri dived in and towed Dressen to the wall. He leaped in a second time and the housewife again rescued him. When he jumped into the water a third time, a lifeguard pulled him out.

DIES AT AGE 47

R. L. Houck, Ex-Mansfielder, Stricken Unexpectedly.

Robert Lee Houck, 47, former Mansfield resident, died unexpectedly at 6 p. m. yesterday at his home in Mt. Vernon after returning from a business trip here.

Mr. Houck drove to Mansfield yesterday noon with his brother to transact some business at the Farmers Savings and Trust company and became ill on arriving at his home. He died before a physician could be summoned.

He moved to Mt. Vernon March 9 of this year and operated the Houck paint store there. Surviving are his wife, Nancy; three children, William, Herbert and Eleanor all at home; his mother, Mrs. William Houck and five brothers and two sisters all of Pennsylvania.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday at the Shaw funeral home in Mt. Vernon. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

PREPARES DATA

Congressman Charges Federal Agencies Play Politics.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep. Robert F. Jones is preparing a mass of data which he said would bear out his contention that government agencies were engaging in propaganda for political purposes and lobbying for legislation.

The Lima representative has introduced a resolution calling for investigation of the alleged activities which he said violated federal law.

SHOT WENT WILD

Bullet Fired at Bird Killed 12-Year-Old Toledo Boy.

TOLEDO —(AP)— Donald Gordon, 15, a high school freshman, admitted to deputy sheriffs today that a bullet fired from his rifle probably killed 12-year-old Richard Gross.

The Gordon boy said he had shot his .22 calibre rifle at a bird in the tree and did not learn of the younger boy's death until an hour later.

ASHBROOK EULOGIZED IN TALKS AT CONGRESS MEMORIAL RITES

Tributes to Ohio's recent congressional dead — Representatives William A. Ashbrook of the 17th district, and Chester A. Bolton of the 22nd—went into the nation's archives today as part of the annual memorial services conducted by the house of representatives.

Mansfield and Richland county are a part of the 17th district and for many years were represented by the veteran Ashbrook who died Jan. 1, on the eve of the present session of congress.

Memorial addresses were delivered by Reps. Thomas A. Jenkins, Clarence J. Brown, William E. Hess, J. Harry McGregor, Harry N. Routzohn, Robert Crosser, George H. Bender, Frederick C. Smith, Jim Seccombe, Charles Elston, John M. Vorys and Cliff Clevenger, all of Ohio.

McGregor, who succeeded Ashbrook, described the veteran publisher-legislator as a "human institution" in his home district.

"It is my ambition," said McGregor, "to merit so far as possible the confidence and high regard in which 'Pension Bill' Ashbrook was held during his more than 50 years of public service."

Jenkins said Bolton was a national figure whose death was a matter of national concern. His superior qualifications, Jenkins added, "enabled him to render conspicuous service."

Crosser recalled that he sometimes disagreed with Bolton on public questions, but "I knew always that the motives which actuated him could not be questioned, and that indicates the possession of a most important element of real character."

"Open, frank, as was his nature, he could be trusted without reservation," said Smith of Bolton.

"I am one among many who knew William Albert Ashbrook as a friend and as a fine man, and I honor his memory," said Vorys, recalling the advice and counsel he received as a new member of congress from Ashbrook.

DENIES CHARGE

Clevelander Pleads Not Guilty In Manslaughter Case.

Harold F. Rolf, 43, of Cleveland Heights, pleaded innocent this morning when arraigned before Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston on an indictment charging second degree manslaughter.

Rolf furnished $1,000 bond and was released pending trial which will probably be during the week of May 6, court attaches said. Rolf has been free on bond since the charge was brought against him about two weeks ago. His plea was entered today by Atty. William F. Black.

Rolf was cited following a traffic accident on route 42 south of Lexington April 12 when Gad Dennis, 67, of Middletown was fatally injured.

GETS DIVORCE, WANTS RECORDS

Film Singer Asserts Husband Broke Phonograph Disks.

HOLLYWOOD —(INS)— With a divorce decree in her hand, Florine McKinney, film singer, was shopping for new phonograph records today.

She obtained the divorce yesterday from Barry Trives, screen writer, whom she married in London four years ago, and wanted the new records because she testified that Trivers broke $200 worth belonging to her during a marital dispute that finally led to the divorce.

Trivers' treatment of her, Miss McKinnedy alleged, also affected her voice, "making me so nervous I could not sing."

Not That It Matters

Traffic Committee Needs Your Help---What About Stricter Law Enforcement

—By JANE WILLIAMS

THE Citizens Committee on traffic seems to be in deadly earnest in tackling this problem of traffic in Mansfield, and it is to be hoped that every citizen will co-operate with the committee, as only through universal co-operation can it accomplish anything.

If the committee believes that parking meters will solve the down town parking problem, then let's have faith enough in the committee to try the meters, even though many of us may disagree on their advisability. (My own opinion has always been that meters don't solve the problem, they merely push the problem out further.)

But there's one thing that the committee should get straight before it starts: Will the police department co-operate?

IN THE past six months—according to traffic tickets issued there hasn't been much of an effort made to keep down-town traffic in line. Double parking has never been worse, and I've seen the same cars parked around Central park all day, day after day.

Mansfield streets at night are used for open air garages with nary a sign of a tail light anywhere. There is no regulation, so far as I know, against parking on the street all night, but there is certainly one on parking without a tail light, to wit: "No person shall leave a vehicle standing on a thoroughfare in the city of Mansfield during the period from one-half hour after sunset to one half hour before sunrise without leaving a red light burning which shall be visible from a direction in the rear for at least 200 feet, except in the white way district."

Just try to get this regulation enforced. If you call police to lodge a complaint against an unlighted car as a traffic hazard, you'll get the answer: "We are not enforcing that because we think it isn't legal." Since when have police been empowered to give legal opinions? City Solicitor Marion Ward says it is legal and should be enforced so long as it is a city traffic regulation. And if the city regulation isn't binding, there is the state law to practically the same effect.

One police officer who is very much interested in traffic told this writer: "I don't think it is necessary to have tail lights burning. If you run into an unlighted car or truck, it is just your tough luck."

When driving conditions are bad —fog, rain, sleet, snow or icy streets, an unlighted and parked car certainly constitutes a traffic hazard.

Here at least is one instance in which police openly refuse to enforce a traffic regulation and law as it exists. What can the Citizens Committee do about that? It seems to me to be just as necessary to have the co-operation of police as it is to have the co-operation of citizenry. Refusing to enforce any part of the traffic laws because the police "do not believe in it" isn't co-operation.

A SMALL and inconspicuous paragraph in newspapers this week recorded the death in Austria of Katharina Schratt, one-time famous actress and beauty who died in obscurity.

Did anyone remember that she was the Kathi of "The Student Prince," who for more than 20 years was the beloved friend of Emperor Franz Josef of Austria? Their story inspired one of the most romantic of modern operettas and some of the most haunting music. Kathi, who must have been more than 85 years old, had gone into retirement at the time the Nazis invaded Austria. She had lived through the most romantic era of Vienna, as well as the darkest.

WHEN Norman Selby, the one time dashing Kid McCoy of the middleweight boxing world, committed suicide in Detroit the other day, there probably weren't many who cared a very great deal.

McCoy had been a lot of things, including saloon porter, dishwasher, hero of fiction writers, middleweight champion of the world, owner of a New York night club, movie actor, auto racer, intimate friend of Maurice Maeterlinck, the great poet, and convict. The Kid was a killer-diller with the ladies and married nine of them. One that he didn't marry he killed, and served a term in San Quentin for it. He was paroled in 1932.

But the Kid leaves one mark on posterity, and that is a slang expression that has stood the test of years and now is a part of our language—the Real McCoy. It came about, I've heard, when he was touring as a boxer and several other fighters were using the name McCoy. The Kid would climb into the ring and introduce himself as "This is Kid McCoy—the REAL McCoy."

And so "the Real McCoy" has come to mean something that is strictly authentic and genuine. Too bad the Kid couldn't live up to his own boast.

QUIETLY and without fanfare, the Metropolitan Opera company has signed a new star who will make her debut in New York sometime during the 1941-42 season. She is Deanna Durbin of the movies.

The present plan, according to Variety, is for Deanna to learn at least ten operatic roles and to make her debut with either the Los Angeles or San Francisco Opera this fall to prepare her for her Met debut later.

The Met believes it has a winner and is planning the greatest publicity campaign since Marian Talley. It will be the first time in the history of either the movies or the opera that a first rank movie star becomes an opera star, although "vice versa" has happened several times.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If Robert Young received as many plaudits from the fans as he does from casting and talent directors, he would be up there with Rooney, Gable, Power and Tracy among the top ten stars of the movies.

"People don't appreciate Young enough," a big studio talent man told me the other day. "We do though. He's one of the most dependable leading men in Hollywood—the kind that can give authority to his roles, whether they're comic or dramatic. A lot of times a picture would fall apart without a smart dependable fellow like Young in a key role. Bob's not flashy, but he's always in there pitching."

The tribute, from a man at a studio which doesn't hold Bob's contract, was deserved. I hadn't realized how thoroughly deserved it was until I saw Young in "Florian." That's the horse picture, in which the Lippizan stallion Florian steals all the bouquets from the human players—partly because a horse can't talk and therefore Florian was spared some of the dialogue the humans had to speak. Despite the handicap, Bob Young was "in there pitching," both in his performance and in his remarkable, steady but certainly not "flashy" horsemanship.

Young is tackling one of his more unusual roles now as Fritz Marberg in "The Mortal Storm." Fritz is Bob's first out-and-out screen heavy—and it's Bob's job to make Fritz not too out-and-out a heel. It probably will be a thankless job from the point of view of fans, but the "dependable" Bob is tackling it as an opportunity. (He holds to the quaint notion that nobody knows so much he can't learn more, a notion he applies to every movie task).

Fritz Marberg of the film is a young Nazi who orders the murder of his ex-fiancee as a patriotic duty, who rejects his best friend when their political views differ, and who believes that what he does is thoroughly right. The character is not inherently selfish, mean, nor despicable. He loves the girl to the end. He is misled, a victim of Nazi philosophy. He is a fellow who was kind and considerate, who loved his family and friends—until a "sudden flash of patriotism," as Bob puts it, turned him completely around. His friends and his sweetheart suddenly became enemies to the cause, and had to be treated as such.

You can see that Fritz Marberg is a "key character," whose projection will be vital to the drama in which Margaret Sullavan and James Stewart, Frank Morgan, Irene Rich and others are also involved. You can see why they put the "dependable" Bob Young in the role.

One of the supporting characters in "The Mortal Storm" is Maria Ouspenskaya—and there's another "dependable" of the movies. The actress is, of course, a genius, her mobile face a parade ground for marching or creeping emotions.

GIOVANNI SPERANDEO

ELSA CARL SPERANDEO

The Apollo Entertainers, Mr. and Mrs. Giovanni Sperandeo, will be heard in a concert of sacred and classical numbers at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the Central Methodist church auditorium. Sperandeo is a lyric tenor, and Mrs. Sperandeo is a concert pianist. At present they are on a tour of high schools, colleges, universities, service and music clubs and churches in this section of the country.

ARTISTS GIVE MUSIC PROGRAM

Giovanni and Elsie Sperandeo, Italian Musicians Appear At Methodist Church.

Giovanni and Elsie Sperandeo, famous Italian musicians, will be the guest artists Sunday evening at a program at the Central Methodist church at 7:30 p. m. A silver offering will be taken.

The Sperandoes have appeared before many churches, schools and universities throughout the United States and have been enthusiastically received.

In addition to the musical part of the program Signor Sperandeo relates briefly the story of his life. The musical work of this couple represents years of study under outstanding masters of voice and piano and experiences in the sacred and secular concert fields. Their concerts are presented in colorful costumes.

Sperandeo sings in six different languages and is the possessor of a B. A. degree from Washington University of St. Louis and a Master's degree from the University of North Carolina. He has studied under seven outstanding vocalists and has been in the concert field, together with his wife, for the past 18 years.

ANNUAL MEETING

Baptists to Elect Officers at Sessions Thursday.

The annual congregational meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the church parlors.

Officers for the new year will be elected, and reports from various organizations, boards and committees are to be presented. Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor, will serve as moderator.

Rev. Braker will speak on "Who Am I?" during the 10:30 a. m. service of worship tomorrow. The senior choir will sing "Rejoice in the Lord Always" and William Lewis will sing "The Old Rugged Cross" as a solo.

"Prayer" from "Finlandia." "Prelude in C Minor" and "Pilgrim's Chorus" will be played as organ numbers by Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music.

A meeting of the church finance committee will be held at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday with Tolman Burns as chairman.

PRESBYTERIANS PLAN TO SEAT NEW OFFICERS

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, APRIL 27, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—join in the nation-wide effort to make motoring safer.

It is interesting to note that President Roosevelt is timing his non-political tour of the country to coincide with the Republican non-political national convention.

According to Robert Quillen: "Our government was founded by the most successful men in the Colonies; now it is controlled by men who never built a business of any kind."

Gifts That Are Refused

MILLIONAIRES and their palatial estates are fallen on evil days. In thousands of cases they can't afford any more to live in their pre-depression homes. They can't sell the properties and can't pay the taxes on them. And when they try to cut the Gordian knot by giving the estates away, they're foiled again.

There have been several cases of this kind. The most interesting one, perhaps, is that of John D. Rockefeller's famous summer home, "Golf House," at Lakewood, N. J. Since the elder Rockefeller's death the property has been kept in good condition but not used. So it naturally occurred to John D. Rockefeller the Younger, whose main business is philanthropy, to give it to the county as a memorial park, for the use and enjoyment of all the citizens.

The first response was favorable, but on second thought a mass meeting of taxpayers voted to refuse the gift. If they accepted it, the property would not pay taxes any longer, and so their own taxes would be higher.

Problems of this kind deserve thought. What will happen to property values and the "American way of life" if such trends continue?

Might Happen Nearer Home

ONLY the fact that Natchez, Miss., is quite far removed from Mansfield results in rather calm acceptance of such a tragedy as was enacted there this week when more than two hundred persons were burned to death in a night club holocaust.

As was the case in a similar occurrence near Mt. Vernon a year ago, the cause was improper construction and inadequate exits for a building put to such use.

While there was only one death in the Mt. Vernon catastrophe, many of the young people in attendance sustained injuries and the whole affair was horrifying—but not to the extent of the Natchez disaster, in which scores of young men and women were roasted alive, many trapped in the blind end of the building, from which there was no egress.

Conditions which made such an occurrence possible are not confined to other states, as the end of prohibition brought into existence many rural night spots with a remodeled barn, or some equally flimsy structure, converted in a dance and drink place, without regard to the danger of crowding large numbers of people into a building not designed for such use.

The Natchez mass tragedy should at least serve as another warning to night club operators and their patrons, as well as to municipal, county and state authorities, to make sure that adequate fire safeguards are maintained at all times in such places.

It would also be well worth while for parents of school children who patronize night clubs to make some investigation along this line.

Looking Over Our Past

THE current popularity of historical novels has been attributed to various causes. It is said that readers turn to history as an escape from the machine age, or that they seek inspiration from the past for beating the economic depression today. Many are supposed to have been set on this particular literary path by the Civil war novel, "Gone With the Wind."

There might be still another reason—a new and sincere interest in the development of the United States. What goes on in Europe and Asia makes us more aware of ourselves and curious about our background. We want to know whether we really can avoid the mistakes made abroad. We want to know what our predecessors thought, as well as what they did, when they explored, settled and built up this country. We have discovered, alas, that our school courses in American history omitted a good deal, and the more we learn now, the more interested we become.

Such an attitude toward the past should be helpful. It sheds light on the present and helps us to plan for the future.

Make Ready for Bigger People

THE AMERICAN population is increasing in stature. Colleges and universities which have kept records on these things find that students increase in height about an inch per generation. This is not yet a nation of giants, but young people are taller, broader and heavier than their grandparents and great-grandparents.

Automobile makers have already taken note of this development and have been building cars that are comfortable for tall people. Now comes word that clothing manufacturers may have to rearrange their size-distribution tables, that theaters must arrange seating to make room for knees and longer legs, that standard size beds will be longer and that architecture may have to plan homes and working places for bigger people.

All these changes will use more material. Perhaps they will maintain a balanced consumption of raw materials going into manufactured goods which might otherwise be upset by a population dwindling in numbers.

Hitler Against Brazil

ORDINARY people are entitled to disagree even with Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, "dean of American historians," about some prophecies he ventured the other day.

Sweden, as he suggests, does seem likely to enter the war soon, and the Netherlands may well be occupied by another "blitzkrieg." The British Isles may become a prominent theater of war, with London and other industrial centers being bombed.

But it will be hard to convince the ordinary American that, if or when Hitler has done those things and emerged victorious, he will land troops in Brazil within six months after the European hostilities have ended.

It is hard for most Americans, at present, to believe Hitler can win. If he does, will not Germany be too exhausted for additional conquests? And where would Uncle Sam be when Hitler dispatched a sea or air fleet to Brazil?

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If we had to risk our future on the success or failure of a single Broadway show, we would want Robert Sherwood to write it. Not that Sherwood is the best writer in the world, but in our opinion he more nearly estimates the reaction of people to moving events than any other writer. He never gets mad. He never permits causes to "burn him up." He knows that people who get too indignant are apt to become more ludicrous than convincing.

MAYOR LaGUARDIA'S riot squads are getting tough. For years, when disturbances threatened, the police merely waded in with bare hands and, by sheer weight of numbers, persuaded the rioters to disperse. But when the reds began creating disturbances near the French building recently the cops had orders not to take any sass from anybody. They didn't carry nightsticks—N. Y. cops haven't been armed with clubs for years, probably because the city's administration doesn't want to offend organized labor, who strike frequently—but they used their fists. They had the caboose wagons lined up waiting, and used them.

MOST of the nearly 100,000 words of Lieut. Col. Harold Hartney's book, "Up and At 'Em," was written on the 18th floor of the Lexington hotel. This is a leaping, plunging account of aerial warfare above the Western Front during the first World war. Col. Hartney was commander of the First Pursuit group, and, as such, shot down many planes and was himself brought down. A pip of a book for insomniacs.

In case you want to make a personal note of it, Larry Clinton has named his new 4-passenger plane the Dipsy-Doodle. Larry himself is known as the old Dipsy-Doodler. He once wrote a song by that title, and it has become his musical signature. But what suggested it as a name for his ship was that the royalties it brought him served as a down payment on the plane. It was just a month ago that he obtained his pilot's license. He is pained that some of his musicians still refuse to fly with him.

USELESS information dept.: Kate Smith's Cocker spaniel is named "Freckles" . . . There is a firm on Madison avenue named The Hope Brassiere company . . . We are corrected by a lady in Baton Rouge, La., for referring to the dog in the "Thin Man" as "Asa," when the name was really Asta . . . Sorry . . . There's a blind musician—a piano player — who sets up "shop" on clear days in the Silk Stocking district of New York. His brother is a truck driver, and every morning the blind player is deposited on Madison avenue, with his portable piano. Later in the afternoon his brother picks him up, and they drive to their home in the Bronx . . . The next book Charles MacArthur will write will be a book of personal reminiscences. MacArthur is the man who signs his autograph "Mr. Helen Hayes."

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, April 27, 1920.

Little interest was shown by voters in the presidential preferential primaries.

Word was received of marriage of Dr. Lydia Allen Devilbiss, formerly of Mansfield, to George H. Bradford, in St. Louis.

Belling and kitchen shower was given for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stroeher, newlyweds.

Jonoch Leech, 57, died.

Birth report: Son to Mr. and Mrs. Bernard D. Coe, 217 Lexington avenue.

Tenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Smith, 171 Sturges avenue.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, April 27, 1935.

Dr. W. J. Runk, Dr. Mabel Emory and Mrs. L. C. Nigh were in charge of the Wittenberg college alumni banquet which was attended by 100.

Announcement was made of the marriage of Miss Faye Parris of Lucas and Louis Harter of Bellville which was solemnized April 3 at Newark.

Bushnell school presented elaborate May day program which was given by 250 pupils.

City Councilman H. H. Henry left Mansfield to accept position with the Otis Steel company in Cleveland.

Michael Vogel, 77, died.

TODAY IN HISTORY

The steamboat Sultana, carrying exchanged Union prisoners of war, was destroyed on the Mississippi River by a boiler explosion on April 27, 1859, with the loss of 1,450 lives.

"BATTER UP" IN EUROPE

Not War, But Peace, That Kills

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—A couple of Odontoglossum Alexandrae to Rep. John M. Vorys of Columbus, Ohio.

The other evening at a social gathering, Mr. Vorys took the floor and demonstrated that he is a master of satire.

His audience was too small. So—although I'm sure I'll turn up missing with the broad humor of Mr. Vorys' personal appearance—I'm going to risk passing it on.

Mr. Vorys' "lecture" was on "War and Peace." Explaining that he was a famous professor, schooled in foreign affairs, Mr. Vorys let it out that he "accompanied" Under-secretary of State Sumner Welles on his recent mission abroad. He could not "divulge" any of the great Wellesian discoveries but with charts and figures he had prepared from observation and research, a few enlightening conclusions on war and peace might be drawn.

Now, There's China—

Mr. Vorys started with the slaughter in China, where there is no official war. He summed up with the starting information (he made up the figures) that some 10,000,000 persons had been killed.

Shifting to Poland, which never was officially at war with Germany, Mr. Vorys estimated that 300,000 had been killed there.

Then, there was the matter between Finland and Russia where another 250,000 spilled their life's-blood on the field of battle—in spite of the fact that the two countries were not "at war."

Now, said Mr. Vorys, the scene has shifted to Norway, where Germany insists there is NO war. Although it is too early to estimate with any accuracy, it is safe to say that deaths there already have mounted into the many thousands.

Even in the United States, Mr. Vorys explained,—this great nation which has been blessed with peace for several years now—from 90,000 to 105,000 persons die violently every year.

BUT, said Mr. Vorys, the Allies and Germany are at war. On the Western Front stalks Monstrous Mars, wielding his sword in Martian glee.

War Dead: 118.

And what happens? After seven months, there were 118 killed, including two fellows who fell 22 stories down an elevator shaft in the Maginot line on New Year's morning.

"The conclusion," says Mr. Vorys, pontifically, "is almost too obvious to necessitate statement. It isn't war tht kills people, it's PEACE."

I can hardly wait until Mr. Vorys' great theory reaches the four corners of the civilized world and pressure groups get to work.

Perhaps Japan could be persuaded to declare war on China and end that great slaughter. Maybe new world organizations would spring up: the "Society to Prevent Peace" or an IOTMDWOTW—"International Organization To Make Hitler Declare War On The World." What a relief it would be if the world were at war with Adolf and young men didn't have to die in needless peace.

An Old Stunt—

Washington, I am sure, must be one of the most naive capitals of the world. Its commentators, although among the best informed anywhere, are the last to suspect perfidy.

When the nazis took Norway, the Washington observers creased their brows and couldn't believe Nazi political infiltration started so many months, even years ago, that the business of clipping Norway's wings was merely a matter of regimenting traitors.

Yet I talked to one of the men in the army today who beat his head, and said: "Lord, yes, I should have known. I talked to hundreds of Belgians after the war—I was stationed there—and over and over heard the stories of how the Germans took scores of towns by false orders and by driving ahead of them a small army of Belgian peasants, so the defenders could not shoot without murdering their own blood.

The Nazis aren't doing anything new. It's just that we've forgotten German methods of warfare—which are the cleverest in the world."

Listen, World!

As the Twig Is Bent.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE'S a grand book out. "As the Twig Is Bent" by Leslie B. Hohman, associate in psychiatry, Johns Hopkins Medical school. And if ever there was a "must read," this is it.

Theoretically, this is a book on how to raise children. Actually, it's the dope on how to recognize the cussedness and meanness in yourself. And take it from me as a mother, you can't raise any child until you realize what a mess you are in your own private personality.

Here are some quotations. If they don't hit you where you live, it's because you're ducking down a gopher hole. First, a bull's-eye for papa, with a few side splinters for mama.

"If the fathers of America suddenly became as vacillating in their performance in business as a majority of them and their wives are in bringing up their children, within the next six months the rolls of the unemployable would swell to a size that would make the staunchest hearts in Washington flutter."

Does that mean that you don't love little Junior and Jessica? Of course it doesn't. But it does mean that you do not work at the job consistently and intelligently as you would work at any trade or profession.

You've never really put it to yourself in these words but you've taken it for granted that children can be raised by fits and starts . . . and that you're such a Special Treat and Shining Example that the little darlings will go straight just by having you around occasionally.

A swell bill of goods to sell yourself—but you might as well get over it right now. No parent is a Special Treat to the average, smart, modern child unless he proves it by performance. And as for being a Shining Example—the youngster is as hep to your every weakness as you are to his. Maybe hepper. Because he belongs to a generation that has been taught not to kid itself.

Now for another—

"If you are constantly unhappy, constantly disillusioned, or constantly unable to attain your ambition, look for basic faults that gained the upper hand in you before you were 15. You do not need to wander into psychologic hinterland in search of obscure possible causes with which to tinker."

That goes for Junior. It means that the fear of dishonesty, the cowardice or conceit which root in him in his childhood will bear vicious fruit all his life, unless he has the courage and intelligence to trace things to their source and tear them out. But it also goes for YOU for, nine times out of ten, you, as a doting or whining father or mother, are responsible for that original fear, cowardice or conceit.

It is a vicious and unsportsmanlike thing to beat a child. But it is infinitely more vicious to brand a sensitive, impressionable young spirit with the stigma of your own discouragement and disillusionment. If you can't say something cheerful around the home, something inspiring to the young soul which is drawing its life from you, then SHUT UP.

To have a child is the greatest opportunity and adventure life can give you. Don't make that youngster of yours wish you had raised goldfish instead.

P. S. Get that book. It will be good for what ails YOU as well as the kid. (Macmillan Company, New York, Publishers).

Timely Editorial

The Voice of America.

In the Kellogg-Briand pacts the United States long ago declared its official condemnation of the use of war as an instrument of national policy. These pacts embodied the moral sentiment of the country, which condemns wars of aggression.

For this nation to pass over such wickedness as the seizure of Denmark and the invasion of Norway without expressing its condemnation, would be to fail in its duty to civilization. The United States is a neutral and is determined to remain a neutral in this war.

That does not mean that it is bound to suppress its judgment on great issues of right and wrong. President Roosevelt voiced American sentiment when he expressed the country's disapprobation of the unlawful exercise of force" against small nations.—Kansas City Times.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Peace of This House.

Peace rests within this house, I know
It as I cross the sill.
Here, love and understanding are
At home, and here good will
Is easily bestowed upon
The passing guest. Repose
Shines in each room, each turning, in
Each decorative rose.

Peace is not filled here as some
Bright party mood, it shines
In every corner of this house.
Its dream at once defines.

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

WHATEVER private views he held as to the possibility of driving Nazis from Norway, Winston Churchill, chief British strategist, could not have been solaced to know, early this week, that military experts in Washington sized up the prospects as dismal.

To these dopesters, all technical advantages seemed to lie with the Germans: established bases, inside lines, defensive positions, control of railways, shorter and protected reinforcement and supply routes, and aerial superiority.

But as the week progressed, Allied strategy in central Norway gave the dopesters pause. Two points evolved.

Frontal Assaults Avoided.

1 The Allies did not send their warships to the front door of German-held coastal cities and attempt to force landings. Gun emplacements along the fjords made that risky. Instead, they made landings at nearby points, and tried to encircle the cities before laying siege.

Even in the far north at Narvik, where the Allies said they sank all German destroyers in the harbor, they landed nearby instead of at the city proper.

Down the coast in central Norway, the French and British landed, not at Trondheim, but at points 100 miles north (Namsos) and 100 miles south (Andalsnes).

After debarking along deep fjords, they marched over and around mile-high mountains toward Trondheim in a pincer movement. Midway, both north and south, they encountered Germans. Thursday, they were reported set back at Steinkjer, south of Namsos. Their warships—waiting for a cue—loafed off Trondheim.

Dombas: A Key.

2 Many of the troops landing at Andalsnes didn't bother with the drive north but hopped trains and bee-lined for the heart of Norway.

U. S. experts, excited by the move, noted that the army which controlled territory within an 80-mile radius of the 7,500-feet-high town of Dombas, a vital rail junction, could dominate all of Norway except the northern and southern tips.

Allied strategy, dopesters suspected, was to herd Germans down into the corner around Oslo. Then, Nazis virtually would have the choice of quitting Norway or rushing reinforcements via Swedish soil. Either move, said the experts, might suit the Allies fine. With Sweden at war, they would have little trouble grabbing Scandinavia's richest plum, Sweden's iron mines near Narvik.

Elsewhere In Europe.

Britons learned that five brand new British battleships were limbering up—and that the war alone during the coming years would cost them seven billion dollars: five would have to be borrowed.

Il Duce's newspapers continued beating the war drums. He was said to be piqued by reports that British admirals were indifferent to Italy's possible entry into the war on Herr Hitler's side.

Rumania relented somewhat from her severe attitude toward Nazis of last week, when she slapped down an embargo, by agreeing—in a new trade pact—to give Germans the wheat they had already contracted to buy.

Fifth columnitis gripped other states. Yugoslavia jailed former Premier Stoyadinovic, Turkey locked up a former finance minister, and Switzerland an army colonel.

At Home

Court Report.

"Congress," says the first amendment to the Constitution, "shall make no law . . . abridging the freedom of speech or of the press." And the 14th adds: "No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizen of the United States."

Those guaranties were underscored by the Supreme Court this week in decisions upsetting anti-picketing laws in Alabama and California. Justice Frank Murphy, its newest member, spoke for the court: "Free discussion concerning the conditions in industry and the causes of labor disputes appear to us indispensable to the effective and intelligent use of the processes of popular government to shape the destiny of modern industrial society."

Engineer In a Hurry.

Worst curve on the New York Central's main line from New York to Chicago is near Little Falls, N. Y., west of Albany. After a derailment there 40 years ago, the company set a 45-mile-an-hour speed limit for the curve. One night last weekend a 15-car passenger train lurched off the track there, killed 30 persons. The train was behind schedule, and speedometer tape indicated the engineer (now dead) tried to take the curve at 59 m. p. h.

Musical Mine.

Mendelssohn's "Fingal's Cave" will be the feature number when the Albuquerque symphony orchestra plays its season's last concert May 19. Musicians probably will wear miners' hats. Setting for the concert: a grotto deep in the old San Pedro gold mine. "The acoustics," enthused Mrs. Grace Thompson, director, "are just perfect . . . and the temperature is just pleasantly cool."

Abroad

Allied Distinctions.

At the start of the World War, the Allies said they had no grudge against the German people—only against the Kaiser's clique. But soon Britons were calling Germans "Huns."

Last September, British Prime Minister Chamberlain told Germans the Allies were fighting only a "tyrannous regime which has betrayed . . . its own people."

This week Alfred Duff Cooper, Chamberlain's former naval chief, termed Nazi assaults on small nations "crimes of the whole people." It is "wishful thinking," he said, "to believe we can drive a wedge between the German government and the German people."

Stalin, As Revised.

French writers who two months ago were calling Joe Stalin a ruthless, power-crazed czar this week were hinting that he might be a shrewd, good-natured gent after all. Here's why:

He kept his bargain with Finland by withdrawing troops on schedule, despite uncertainties caused by the fighting in Norway.

His agents were reported dickering for trade agreements with Britain, Yugoslavia and Japan.

He appeared undisturbed when Allied warships stopped two of his ore boats in the Pacific.

His mouthpiece, the newspaper Trud, observed that sober French people "have nothing in common with those who preach the breaking off of relations . . . with the Soviet."

His men in London let it be known that Russia was more interested in domestic affairs and cleaning up after the Finnish campaign than in war.

He wasn't listed among those who sent birthday greetings to Adolf Hitler.

Non-Intervention.

Since 1924 an average of 930 Japanese a year have migrated to the Philippine Islands. At least 25,000 now are settled around Davao, on Mindanao Island, where they live in a closely integrated economic unit. This week the Filipino legislature pondered establishing a quota that would cut Japanese immigration almost in half. Tokyo appealed to Washington and was referred right back to Manila.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

"Skeleton at the Feast."

Today it is a colorful figure of speech for a dolorous reminder at an inauspicious time; but in the days during which the expression evolved it was quite literal.

The illusion is to the ancient Egyption practice, described by Plutarch, of making a place, at a party or banquet, for a skeleton, mummy or death's head.

The purpose was to remind the revellers of the transiency of life.

And this, generally, is the significance the phrase has today—a reminder of pain and grief in the midst of joy, and that life is short.

EVENING CEREMONY PERFORMED FOR PAIR

Miss Florence Beer, Jacob Urschel Exchange Vows Before Altar of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed Church.

IN A PRETTY candlelight ceremony at 7:30 o'clock yesterday evening, Miss Florence Jeannette Beer became the bride of Jacob Philip Urschel before the altar of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church. Before the service, which was performed by Rev. Paul H. Saleste, Miss Kathryn Huber presided at the organ, playing "Oh Promise Me," "Liebestraum," Lohengrin and Mendelssohn Wedding Marches with the traditional "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond during the exchange of vows. Miss Miriam Oswalt sang "Because" and "Indian Love Song."

Two seven-branched candelabra and other white candles lighted the church altar, which was decorated with two beauty baskets of mixed spring flowers in soft shades of orchid and pink.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Beer, jr., 52 Richland avenue, was given in marriage by her father. Her floor-length gown of white marquisette was fashioned with a full, circular skirt and fitted bodice, which buttoned down the back. Bands of Chantilly lace trimmed the puffed sleeves, and four insertions decorated the skirt of the gown, which she wore over a white taffeta slip.

The former Miss Beer's shoulder-length veil, trimmed in Chantilly lace, was held in place by a Juliet cap. The bride's only jewelry was a gold locket, a gift from the bridegroom, and she carried a bouquet of gardenias, white roses and sweetpeas, tied with white satin ribbons.

Miss Kitty Jane Birch, the maid-of-honor, was attired in a dutsy pink net gown. She wore this over taffeta of the same shade, and the dress had a double net skirt, fitted waistline and smaller collar on the high neckline. An orchid ribbon hairbow, orchid-tinted shoes, and a bouquet of orchid and pink sweetpeas and pink roses, tied with orchid ribbons completed Miss Birch's costume. She wore a locket, which the bride and bridegroom had given her.

Mr. Urschel, who is the son of Mrs. Peter M. Urschel, 356 West Third street, chose his brother, Peter M. Urschel, jr., to be his best man. William Dale Beer and Robert W. Dunn were the ushers.

Mrs. Beer wore a street-length gown of hyacinth blue lace with pink and navy blue accessories for her daughter's wedding. Pink and blue sweetpeas formed her shoulder corsage.

A reception, for members of the immediate families and a few close friends, was held at the bride's home immediately after the ceremony. A tiered wedding cake and spring flowers decorated the refreshment table at that time.

Later last night, Mr. and Mrs. Urschel left on a ten-days trip to New York City, Baltimore, Md., and Washington, D. C. For traveling the bride wore a dusty pink ensemble. The wool crepe dress was topped with a matching jacket, trimmed with red fox fur, and with it Mrs. Urschel wore a dusty pink hat and navy blue accessories. Her gardenia shoulder corsage was taken from the center of her bridal bouquet.

The bride, who was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school, is employed at the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Insurance company. Mr. Urschel, a graduate of Springfield Township high school, is an employe of the production department at the Ohio Brass company. Upon their return to Mansfield, Mr. and Mrs. Urschel will reside at the Richland avenue address.

After the games, the hostess served luncheon at the small tables. Mrs. Mattox has invited the group to her home, 485 West Dickson avenue, for a meeting in two weeks.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Two Will Attend Cleveland Meet, Plan Arrangement

The usual morning meetings followed by luncheons were held yesterday by a number of the city's garden clubs. Gordon Schwan spoke to members of the Astowela club who met with Mrs. William T. Marquis, Euclid avenue. He spoke in behalf of the Maple Lake park association, and the club pledged support to making the area into a park.

Mrs. C. V. McConnell presided during the routine business meeting at which time Mrs. J. H. Finefrock and Mrs. Paul McConnell were named to represent the local organization at the state meeting of the Garden Club of Ohio at Higbee's May 1 and 2. These two women will also arrange a floral exhibit for the two day meeting.

Mrs. H. G. Balyeat, conservation chairman, will attend the meeting at Loudonville Thursday to discuss retaining the CCC camp at Mohican State park.

For the program Miss Carolyn Walter and Mrs. Neil Remy conducted a question box. Luncheon was served, and Mrs. Dean Rex, asociate hostess, presided at the table.

The next meeting will be held May 10 with Mrs. McConell, Euclid avenue, and Mrs. Finefrock as hostesses. Mrs. George Holland will present a book review.

Buffet Luncheon Held By Town, Country Club

A buffet luncheon was served from a table decorated with spring flowers yesterday when Mrs. Paul Lee, Forest avenue, entertained 21 members of the Town and Country Garden club. Mrs. George Price, president, presided at the table. Arrangements were made at this time to send Mrs. Wilmot Peirce, Mrs. Price, Mrs. Robert Stevens, Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Merritt A. Giles to the Garden club of Ohio meeting at Higbee's in Cleveland May 1 and 2.

"In My Garden" by Louis Wilder was reviewed by Mrs. Giles during the program. Plans were also made to send a delegation to the park commission meeting at the Chamber of Commerce club rooms Tuesday evening. The next meeting of the club will be a picnic May 10 at the cabin of Mrs. H. W. Gibbs, Little Washington.

Insist on Safe Driving

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

ACCORDING to published figures, youths of high school and early college age are the most dangerous drivers of cars.

We might expect them to be the safest. They could be if they cared. They are physically and mentally alert; they have good vision, hearing and motor coordination, as a rule; they can easily learn the mechanism of driving and the traffic regulations.

But they lack the sense of responsibility which their parents feel and the inhibitions which older persons exercise. They lack caution, as a rule. Nevertheless, an occasional youth does excel as a cautious driver.

Many of us have expressed great hope in the possible good effect of courses in high school on safe driving—a move in the right direction, it seems. I have been unable to find figures which have carefully measured the effect of these courses. It is possible that their good effect has been greatly exaggerated, except where attitudes in the students are changed to the extent that they choose to put self-restraint on the foot that feeds the gas.

But self-restraint concerning speed is hard to teach. How well the high school student will learn it will depend, largely, upon the amount of self-restraint he had learned up to then; his self-restraint has depended chiefly upon the degree of effective restraint he has experienced in his home training.

What about the sense of responsibility? Some of this he might get from a course but it, too, will depend chiefly on earlier home training. Self-restraint and sense of responsibility, of course, are basic traits in character and citizenship.

In a number of places in the United States where high school course are given in driving, I have learned that some youths allowed to enter these courses before the legal driving age are, in defiance of their parents and the law, driving the family car. For safety, citizenship and wholesome parent-child relationships, it would seem that no student should be allowed to enter these courses until he has reached the legal age for driving in his state.

No Guaranteee.

Let no parent believe that any course in safe driving will guarantee safe driving in his child. Rather, the good influence of such a course will be in proporportion to the attitudes and habits in the child from the time of his birth. Let parents with babies begin at once to train them for safe driving later through adequate restraints, self-reliance and responsibility.

What about the children who think they are old enough to drive? Assuming that you have controlled and guided your child reasonably well to date, see that he doesn't begin to drive, even with you, until the day he has arrived at the legal driving age. Then as he begins to drive, let him prove while you are with him that he is duly cautious. If he isn't and wishes to speed or go too fast at dangerous places, forbid his further use of the car until he has proved himself ready.

Wise parents who know their son or daughter is not a safe driver won't wait until the court eventually disqualifies this youth to drive; they will themselves "revoke the driving license."

And when you are riding with your adolescent son or daughter at the wheel, don't waste your time by saying, "Not so fast." Clearly state the speed limit for specific types of road and take the driver's place if he exceeds it. Be generous with words of appreciation when you do get co-operation.

Two Named to Attend Conservation Session

Mrs. Gene Zediker, Russell road, opened her home yesterday for the meeting of the Buckeye Garden club, and during the session Mrs. Earl Gaar, president, and Mrs. B. B. Drummond, conservation chairman, were appointed to attend the meeting of the park commission to be held at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening. Tentative plans were also made for attending the Loudonville meeting Thursday at which time the retaining of the C. C. C. camp at the Mohican State park will be discussed.

Pictures of Mansfield gardens made by Mrs. C. A. Hines of the Astowela Garden club were shown by Mrs. Thomas Siegenthaler, program chairman. Luncheon was then served with Mrs. Drummond and Mrs. Deming Lowrey presiding at the table which was decorated with sweet pear and daisies. The next meeting will be held May 10 with Mrs. Siegenthaler and Miss Carolyn Wolf at the Hartman farm.

Raemelton Manager Has Program on Show

At the session of the Mansfield Garden club yesterday John Kullman, farm manager at Raemelton farms, spoke on the New York Flower show at which he was a judge. The show, which is an annual affair, is sponsored by the New York Horticultural society and garden clubs at the Grand Central palace.

The meeting was at the home of Mrs. Carl Routzahn, Woodland, with Mrs. S. C. Schiller assisting. Luncheon was served following the program with Mrs. Carville Gorman and Mrs. Ephraim Brown presiding at the table.

Members will meet May 10 at 11 a. m. with Mrs. Charles Keating, 74 Sturges avenue, with Mrs. Fred Herring assisting.

GOLFERS NOTICE.

Members of the Women's association of the Westbrook Country club will meet at 9 a. m. Tuesday morning for regular play, weather permitting, Mrs. T. J. Chamberlain, chairman, announced today. Pairings will be made at the locker house.

MRS. RACE TO HEAD MANSFIELD GROUP

Selected as President at Final Meeting; Group Plans to Make Trip to Newark Late Next Month.

AT THE FINAL MEETING of the year yesterday new officers of the Art Study club were elected. Those assuming their duties in the fall will be Mrs. Ralph Race, president; Mrs. Harvey Lanehart, vice president and program chairman; Mrs. Richard Fensch, secretary, and Mrs. Ray Hammer, treasurer.

The 29 members and one guest, Mrs. Edgar White Burrill, New York, were entertained at the Susie Janis home by Mrs. Charles Chew, Mrs. Lanehart, Mrs. K. E. Buhr and Miss Florence Robison. At the close of the afternoon tea was served at two long tables decorated with a flat arrangement of tiny corsages made of pansies and huckleberry leaves. These were tied with green ribbons which led to place cards painted by Miss Robison. Green and white candles in crystal holders completed the setting.

Mrs. Burrill, a New York artist, exhibited one of her own canvases, and Mrs. Chew had the paper of the afternoon. She spoke on "Noted American Sculptress." Her selections included biographical notes and the display of pictures of the works of Malvina Hoffman, Gertrude V. Whitney and Anna Coleman Ladd.

During the business meeting Mrs. M. M. Collins and Mrs. Glenn Marriott were welcomed into membership. The group planned a trip to Newark May 21 where they will visit the Heise cabin and view the antique display and also tour Baughman park. Plans were made to hold a picnic sometime in August with the retiring officers and the program committee in charge.

Those making arrangements will be Mrs. Lanehart, Miss Lena L. Bowman, Mrs. Leonard Nigh, Mrs. Marion Brinkerhoff, Mrs. William Kuhn, Miss Henrietta Frank, and Mrs. Buhr.

Faculty Members Have Party for Principal

There were 30 members of the faculty present last night at a surprise party honoring H. J. Dotson, principal of the John Simpson Junior high school. Mr. Dotson's birthday was Thursday and the teachers honored him with cards, dancing and refreshments in the school cafeteria.

A gift was presented to the honoree, and the table decoration included a large birthday cake. Arrangements were made by Miss Elizabeth Hainer, Mrs. Gladys Lane, Herbert Perrell, Dan Huber, Irvin Brune and Miss Naomi Stutz.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, April 28.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a most propitious one for all manner of religious, mystical, spiritual and metaphysical vocations and avocations, as the intellectual, psychological and creative forces and faculties are attracted to the subtle and abstract rather than to the commonplace and concrete.

Those whose birthday it is may experience a year of peculiar, subtle or novel adventures, with the forces and faculties turned in the direction of the intriguing, fantastic, curious and intangible.

A child born on this day may have many singular, subtle and unfathomable traits of character which, if directed and trained into creative channels, might excel in unusual intellectual or cultural expression.

For Monday, April 29.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a rather adverse one, with omens of difficulties and frustrations in both business and private affairs. It may be hard to make much headway, as obstacles and afflictions menace. Elders and superiors oppose; social relations may be strained and depressing. Postpone where possible.

Those whose birthday it is may encounter a year of difficulties, delays and depressions, in business as well as social or domestic relations. There are signs of opposition from elders and superiors, and the physical condition may figure as a factor in frustration.

A child born on this day may be slow, introspective, subtle and profound not easily understood and valued by its elders and superiors.

SLIGHT MISTAKE

TOPEKA, Kas.—(AP)—Was his face red? An astrologer, who said he was making his last appearance in town, claimed he could read the most minute details of the future by consulting the stars. Then the theater manager announced the astrologer was being held over for another week.

CHAPTER XXVII

"You're right," Melvyn agreed gravely, slipping from the bed. "Apparently Billy means what he said. Besides, we shouldn't be in here anyway. Miss Caruthers — she's the chief of nurses—would throw a fit if she knew we were here. Billy's being punished, you know."

Billy hastily laid down his knife and fork and pushed his chair after them as they walked towards the door. His brown eyes were round with anxiety as he looked at Elaines' gravely composed face.

"I ain't—I'm glad you came, Miss Warburton. An' I hope you ain't angry with me. I guess I hate all women excepting you."

Elaine smiled as she took his timidly proferred hand firmly in hers. She looked into his worried eyes. "I'm not angry with you, Billy. And I'm very glad that you do like me. But I'm sorry that you have decided to become a woman hater. What ever caused you to want to become one?"

A dull flush suffused the boy's cheeks and he ran his tongue nervously over his lips. "Miss Caruthers," he explained in half a whisper. "She's always putting me in isolation."

"Why?" Elaine questioned relentlessly.

"Cause I always get in trouble," Billy told her with a little shrug. He glanced up, eyes defiant. "An' that's why I hate women. If Miss Caruthers was smart she'd know instead of sitting around all day, a guy has to have something to do Miss Caruthers is dumb an' since she's a woman, all women are dumb an' I hate dumb people."

"And that was Billy," Melvyn commented with a smile an hour or so later as they sat sipping cocktails at a rear table in a restaurant on Ninth avenue. "But you know, Elaine, Billy is right in one respect. Those youngsters must have something to do with themselves every minute of the day or they will constantly be getting into trouble."

Elaine placed her glass down conscious of a sickish sensation. She hadn't intended to order a cocktail for they never did agree with her, but somehow or other Melvyn had cajoled her into accepting one. She picked up the tumbler of water and drank from it.

"Why doesn't the hospital provide them with something to do then?" she asked. "Gracious, if that's all they need to make them behave I should imagine the hospital would be glad to buy them toys and magazines."

Melvyn shrugged his shoulders. "Games and toys cost money and the hospital can't afford them. But everything will be different now. Clara is having her father send a batch of them over to us. You know, Elaine, Clara is a swell person. She's very generous and kind and thinks nothing of going out of her way to do something for some one."

Elaine compressed her lips into a tight line and eyed him coldly. "You needn't try to convince me that Clara is a nice person, Melvyn. Nothing you or she or any one else can say will make me change my mind about her."

He tapped his fingers on the table and relaxed in his chair as an amused smile came to his lips.

"How like a little girl you are, Elaine. You're so prim about some things, and so sure you're right in your opinion of Eric and Clara. Did it ever occur to you that a kiss doesn't mean anything? Eric hasn't been contaminated simply because his lips touched Clara's. And his love for you hasn't been impaired in the slightest by it. And as for Clara . . ."

"Eric was engaged to marry me." Elaine interrupted tonelessly. "Clara was my friend and professed great regard for me. But she looked upon Eric and found him to her liking and so she set out to steal him from me. Eric apparently had no objections to that, which means he didn't love me after all."

"In other words, he sacrificed his mother's regard, the fortune which might some day have been his, and his social position just for the fun of it?" Melvyn's mocking laugh boomed out in the small room. "Elaine, I'm surprised at you. I thought you had more intelligence than that."

Elaine could feel a burning in her cheeks and she turned her head away to escape his mocking eyes. But she was right! For all the words he might utter in their defense, she was right. Had Eric loved her he would never have considered kissing another girl, and if Clara were her friend she would never have permitted him to take her into his arms. Another thought ran through her head and she turned her gaze to Melvyn.

"How come you're taking Eric's side all of a sudden? I thought that you were hoping something like this would happen?"

"I was," he admitted with a slow drawl. "And I still hope you won't marry him. But I don't like to see you acting like a schoolgirl, or tossing aside one of your best friends, just because of a kiss. Why don't you be sensible and make up with both of them?"

"If I did I would never marry you," she reminded him softly. "Knowing that, would you still advise me to forget about that kiss?"

He met her eyes frankly. "Knowing that you would marry him, I would never send you back. But that is just the point. You won't marry him, Elaine. Give Eric enough rope and he'll hang himself. Some day he'll do something so serious that he will kill whatever love you feel for him. Then you'll come to me. I want to marry you, yes, but I want to marry you only when you love me. Right now you fancy yourself through with Eric—but you aren't. No woman's love is killed just because of a kiss, and right this moment, though you deny it, you aren't through with Eric."

"Are all doctors so learned when it comes to love?" Elaine asked sarcastically. Stung by his matter-of-fact calmness. She turned her eyes from his and glanced idly about the room. She stiffened in her chair as she saw Betty and Clara come in through the restaurant door. A sudden, knowing gleam shone in her eyes.

"Melvyn, did you tell Clara to meet us here?" she was white with anger but she managed to control herself, to keep her voice calm.

"Of course," he said, unabashed by the fury that blazed in her eyes. "Is she here?" He looked about and smiled as he saw the two girls coming over to their table. "Now act like a person of intelligence, Elaine. Heavens, this is the twentieth century!"

Elaine stifled an impulse to get up and leave. She wanted to say more, infinitely more to Melvyn, but before she could summon up the necessary words Clara and Betty had reached their table, and one quick glance at Clara's pale face and anxious eyes had the effect of cooling her range.

Maybe, after all, Melvyn was right. Perhaps the kiss was just one of those things which happens all the time. Perhaps Clara hadn't even intended to kiss Eric at all; she always did such strange things when a thunderstorm was raging. And, finally, who was she to judge Eric or Clara? She—she had kissed Melvyn despite the fact that she was engaged to Eric!

"Well, you could at least have the courtesy to ask us to sit down," Betty's reproving voice recalled Elaine to the present.

Elaine glanced up to meet Clara's curious stare, and smiled. "I didn't know that my friends had to be invited to eat with me."

With a whoop of joy Clara rushed over to her and flung her arms about Elaine's neck. Heedless of the grinning Melvyn and Betty, she kissed Elaine heartily on the cheek.

"I'm kissing you because I'm glad you've decided to forget the other night," Clara explained with a gay smile. "But Elaine, if you ever keep me standing like that again I'll—I'll. . . ."

"She'll crush you like an eggshell," Betty declared savagely. "And I'll help her to do it, too!"

"And I," Elaine told them loftily, "have a friend who is a surgeon and he'll put me back together again."

SILENCE, IS ELOQUENT

Good card readers get information from things that are not done, as well as from those that are done. Why didn't that player make a certain bid, lead or play? Sometimes the answer to a question of that kind will furnish the only clue you need to figure out the location of cards which can determine the entire result of the deal.

After the defenders had ripped off four diamond tricks and needed only one more to defeat the contract, East led the club 2. South promptly saw that his only chance to run nine consecutive tricks lay in making four club tricks in addition to the five which were certain in the major suits. Reduced still further, his problem was to prevent the club Q from winning a trick.

In order to get a line on whether to finesse against the Q or try to drop it, South postponed the decision. He came in with the A, knowing he could finesse later if he decided to. But when West played the 8, he had all the additional evidence he required.

First, he decided that East, holding only a doubleton or tredeton, headed by a small card, would have led the top of it. Therefore, East had at least four, since he led the 2. If he had held five, he would have bid the suit first instead of diamonds. Hence he had exactly four and West two. If West had the 8 and a smaller one, he should have played the smaller one on the first club trick. Therefore, South decided West had the Q, and consequently played his K next, dropping it and assuring the success of his risky contract, bid without any diamond stopper.

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Lillian was the first to speak. With a deft movement she caught my right hand and Dicky's in her own and held them aloft.

"The win-nahs!" she intoned, but softly, so that the guards, ostentatiously and tactfully busy at the other end of the attic, could not possibly hear her.

"A toast a toast!" she murmured. "To our Incomparable Pair. long may they live and sleuth for us!"

"If you can restrain your exuberance, Lil," Dicky drawled provokingly, "I think the Chief would like to say a few words."

But Lillian was not abashed. She never is.

"Sorry, Chief!" she said. "I'll pipe down at once. But I am so tremendously thrilled by all this. It's like living a movie thriller!"

My father smiled at her.

"My dear," he said, "as I have remarked frequently on occasion, you are the most puzzling combination of hard-boiled sophisticate and wide-eyed naive child that it has ever been my lot to know. You always refresh me and despite Richard's strictures, you have not delayed the game at all. Is that satisfactory?"

"Absolutely," she returned, wrinkling her nose at Dicky, "except for one question, which, if unanswered, will slay me."

The Chief's heavy eyebrows narrowed involuntarily at her question, but his prompt smile redeemed the frown.

"Please put your question at once," he said. "I have no desire to be responsible for your exit from this life."

Lillian grinned engagingly at him.

"Are you going to explore the tunnel right away?" she asked hopefully.

"Am I mistaken in thinking you would like to be assigned to that task?" he asked.

"I'd ask nothing more of life," she said extravagantly. "My oldest clothes, a good flashlight, my faithful little pistol—what could be sweeter?"

"I'd like to indulge you," he said regretfully, "but it can't be done at this time. This affords me a grand opportunity to give Leslie the impression that we know nothing of this secret entrance."

"I haven't forgotten the men who were up here," he said. "They're going to be my bait. I'll outline my plan to you as soon as we get back to my rooms. In the meantime, I want Richard to ask the guards to come over here."

Dicky crossed the room in the effortless stride which is really hurried but gives the opposite impression, and spoke to the guards. The next second they started toward us, while my father stood awaiting them with one hand upon the chimney-breast, where the stone, door had opened beneath Dicky's groping fingers.

CLAIM THRUST BY NORWEGIAN ROUTE PLANNED

Von Ribbentrop Says Germany Frustrated Scheme for Norse Invasion.

Reich "in tacit collusion with the Norwegian government."

Alleged Threat.

Von Ribbentrop spoke at length of alleged British threat to neutrals, with particular emphasis on Winston Churchill's invitation to all neutrals to join the Allies in the war against Germany.

"This," he said, "was the last warning to the neutrals."

The photos include an alleged document setting forth the Oslo government's tacit consent to Allied landing plans scheduled to start April 6 with departure of a British expeditionary fleet. The German occupation of Norway began April 9.

United States Charge D'affaires Alexander Kirk, in a top-hat and morning coat, headed a delegation of American diplomatic officials attending the meeting.

He and the others trooped through a long hall of the chancellery to the lavishly furnished diplomatic reception chamber, where motion picture cameras and microphones had been trained on Von Ribbentrop, who sat at a long table in uniform surrounded by his immediate aides.

Handed Copies.

Von Ribbentrop personally greeted each diplomat and handed them a specially bound copy of the white book.

"Throughout the Russo-Finnish war," Von Ribbentrop said, "the Allies were notifying the world that their plans to invade the Scandinavian countries had all been completed. The latest evidence of this is contained in documents taken at Narvik after the capture of that town by German forces.

"A report of the French military attache in Oslo of last year shows that secret negotiations were then going on among the Allies concerning an invasion of the northern coutries.

"In connection with all the information in possession of the German government I have this statement to make. So far as Sweden is concerned we have definite proof that this country was absolutely sincere in its fervent and continued statements that it intended to preserve neutrality.

Secret Agents.

"But we also have indisputable proof that British secret agents have been conducting their machinations in the Scandinavian countries, securing active cooperation of units of the Norwegian army and navy.

"In the same category belong British attempts at sabotage in the southeastern countries of Europe.

"In Norway, the Stavanger airdrome, Narvik, Oslo and Bergen were first to have been occupied by the Allies.

"But other documents show that British and French troops were not to have been content with occupation of Norway alone. Additional documents disclose that in case of invasion by the Allies, Norway was to contest but not to offer real resistance.

"Norwegian Foreign Minister Haldvan Koht declared that everything must be done if war became unavoidable but that Norway should at least not fight on the wrong side.

"Thus by neglecting the vital interests of the Norwegian people, Norway purposely aided the western powers in their plans to extend the war."

Documents Found.

Documents proving the Allied intention, Von Ribbentrop said, among other places were found among effects of the eighth battalion of Sherwood Foresters, the 148th British infantry brigade, who were captured at Lillehammer.

The projected Allied invasion, Von Ribbentrop said, was to be camouflaged as "assistance to Finland."

"By April 8," Von Ribbentrop said, "English naval forces destined to occupy the Norwegian ports of Stavanger, Bergen, Trondheim and Narvik, were already on the high seas.

"When the Allies finally realized that their plans had been frustrated by Germany and that everything was lost, they confronted the world with statements alleging previous German preparations for the invasion of Norway.

"The German government feels therefore that the time has come to acquaint the world with the documentary material by means of which it will be proved that all the British assertions are nothing but complete fabrications.

"German forces after their lightning invasion of Norway, were able to seize the entire secret English plan for a Norwegian invasion.

"The forthcoming publications will show the indisputable fact that the Norwegian government was fully acquainted with this projected invasion and had made up its mind that it would be best to accede to this development."

Denial: British Say No Truth In Charges.

LONDON—(NS)—The new German white book alleging British plans to invade Norway was labelled a "perversion of truth" by official British sources today.

An official statement handed to the press and characterized as coming from "authoritative quarters" said:

"The world will scarcely be impressed by Ribbentrop's disingenuous statement which from beginning to end is characterized by deliberate perversions of truth.

"Ribbentrop declared there was no reason for war.

"The reason was a deliberate attack on Poland to which Britain and France both were bound by treaty engagements.

"There is no truth in Ribbentrop's assertion of allied plans to dismember the German nation. The prime minister (Neville Chamberlain) has already described this allegation as a malicious misstatement.

"As regards so-called British plans to invade Scandinavia, Ribbentrop bases his charges on alleged statements by Winston Churchill (first lord of the admiralty) and others.

"There is no doubt that extension of war into Scandinavia is due to the deliberate action of Germany and this they seek to justify on the basis of an alleged document of which they took no cognizance when they committed their aggression.

Ganea came to Mansfield from Rumania 26 years ago. He worked at the Ohio Brass company for several years, and had been employed by Jacobs since last fall.

He is survived by a brother, Charles, in Mansfield, and three sisters in Rumania. His wife died several years ago. The body was removed to the Sutter funeral home in Shelby. Funeral arrangements were incomplete today.

Funeral services for Hout will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the Wappner funeral home, Mansfield, with Rev. James L. Boyer of the First United Brethren church officiating. Burial will be in the Windsor cemetery.

Native of Mifflin township, Richland county, Hout is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Hout of Mifflin township; five brothers, Wayne, Courtney, Gordon, and Waldo, all of Mansfield, and David of Indianapolis, and two sisters, Mrs. Clyde Ferguson and Mrs. James Knapp, both of Mansfield.

DIES AT AGE 71 IN CRESTLINE

CRESTLINE — Mrs. Adam Bauer, 71, died Friday at 2 p. m. at her home after six months' illness.

Elizabeth Schwert, daughter of the late John and Catherine Schwert, was born June 14, 1868, on a farm northwest of Crestline. Her marriage occurred 47 years ago.

Surviving are the husband, one daughter, Mrs. John Walter of Crestline, and a son, Howard Bauer of near Leesville.

Also three sisters and four brothers, Mrs. R. A. Dilley of Canton, Mrs. B. P. Muntis, Mrs. Homer Brown, George Schwert, Jacob, William and Homer, all of Crestline, and seven grandchildren.

The body will be removed from the R. E. Beck funeral home to the home of the daughter, Mrs. John Walter.

Funeral services will be held from Trinity Lutheran church Monday at 2:30 p. m. Rev. C. H. Lange will officiate and burial will be in Crestline cemetery.

Mrs. Bauer was a member of the Lutheran church and the Aid society of the church.

TECH SHOWING WINNING POWER

Bob Shaw of Fremont got rid of a tremendous heave of 54 feet, almost four feet better than the existing mark of 50 feet 3¼ inches, set by Henry (Jabbo) Giles of Newark, in 1938.

Two other weight men also broke the Giles record.

The two athletes who trailed Shaw but still bettered the Giles record were Ed Willis, Lorain, with a toss of 52 feet 5 inches, and Gast, Shaker Heights, 51 feet.

Harry E. Mehock, director of the Relays, ruled that the Shaw and Willis marks in the shot put would stand as official meet records, unless they are broken this afternoon.

Willis, competing only in the shot put event, went to the Wesleyan Relays at Delaware to try his hand there after completing his throws here.

Shaw will throw the shot this afternoon. However, if no one betters his morning mark, he will win first place in the event, and Willis will get a second, unless someone betters his heave.

Shaw led the way in the discus throw, with a heave of 134 feet 5 inches, which was good enough but still far below the record. Willis was also second in this event, with 132 feet 8 inches.

Willis stopped the javelin qualifiers with a toss of 152 feet 2 inches. Boehler, a teammate from Lorain, was second with a heave of 130 feet 3 inches.

Others beside Thomas to qualify for the finals of the 100-yard dash were Ed Prokop, Cleveland Cathedral Latin, and Bill Woods, Cincinnati Terrace Park. Woods is the 1939 Class B champion. Lloyd Grable, another East Tech entry, strengthened his team's chances when he ran the century in 10.2 to win his heat and qaulify for the finals.

He also led the high jump qualifiers, with a leap of 5 feet 7 inches, not sensational, but injured his leg on his last jump. How serious the injury might be was not immediately determined.

Harold Lane, another East Tech ace, and national scholastic high hurdle champion, won his heat of the hurdle event going away, in the time of 15.5.

Thomas, who also runs the 220-yard dash and competes in the broad jump, uncorked a leap of 21 feet 11¼ inches in the latter event and seemed certain to qualify there. The record, held by Jesse Owens, also of East Tech, is 25 feet 3 inches.

Should Thomas win the 100 and 220, as he is touted to do, and should Lane cop the high hurdles and Thomas come back to take the broad jump, East Tech would have four firsts, which would make them almost unbeatable in the finals, especially should they take the expected number of second and third places.

More than 400 spectators were in the stands by 11 a. m. today, an hour after the meet started, and the crowd was growing steadily.

The weather was the best that has been dished up for the Relays in years, and a record-breaking crowd was expected for this afternoon's finals.

GALION MAYOR NAMES MOODY AS NEW CHIEF

New Appointments Made as Result of Resignation Of Ex-Chief Cook.

GALION — Mayor W. M. King today announced the appointment of George Moody as chief of the Galion police department, affective May 1, and also made two other appointments.

Moody has served as acting chief since the retirement of Frank Cook in March. He was appointed a patrolman Dec. 30, 1924, and on July 1, 1926, was appointed captain. Moody came to Galion in 1917 from Paulding, where he had two years experience as a policeman. He served on the force here first in 1919 for a six-month period, filling a vacancy.

Mayor King also appointed James Walker as acting captain, a position he has held since March when Moody was named acting chief. Charles Lauer, 25, of Second avenue, was named a patrolman, filling a vacancy created by the appointment of Walker as acting chief. Lauer had the highest grade of 18 men who recently took a civil service examination for patrolman. He is married and has one child.

There will be another vacancy on the force May 1 when the resignation of Charles Ferrall becomes effective, the mayor announced.

A four-man hospital commission was also named by Mayor King this morning for a period of four years. Those named are G. M. Badgley, Dr. Mert Helfrich, E. Paul Monroe and G. L. Stiefel.

The commission will have complete charge of the construction of a new city hospital expected to be started early in May. Preliminary plans were approved this week. The building will be a two-story brick structure to include nurse's quarters, a laundry and kitchen.

strength against the Germans in Scandinavia.

Military commentators agreed that fighting in Norway probably would be long and tough, but predicted Allied sea power ultimately would bring victory.

Norwegians Flee Over Border, Report.

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—Hundreds of Norwegian soldiers were fleeing across the Swedish border east of Roeros today after the town had been recaptured by a German "Blitz" column gathering new momentum in a northward drive through the Glomma river valley toward Trondheim.

One hundred miles to the southwest, between Otta and Ringebu, A second German column attempting to push up the parallel Gudbrands valley was reported engaged in a bitter, head-on battle with British troops dispatched from their concentration point at Storen to bolster slowly retreating Norwegian forces.

Storen is approximately 30 miles south of Trondheim, and is the junction of two railway lines along which the German columns have been advancing in an attempt to establish land communications between that west coast port and Oslo.

The flight of Norwegian forces defending the Glomma river valley was reported by Swedish newspaper correspondents last night after the Germans succeeded in recapturing Roeros, which they occupied briefly Thursday but from which they later withdrew when their position proved untenable.

Four hundred Norwegian soldiers crossed the Swedish frontier and were interned today as the Germans, apparently reinforced, resumed their drive.

Reports of the German reoccupation of Roeros reversed the military picture in the Glomma valley, where the British earlier were reported bringing up light artillery to support the Norwegians.

The Norwegian high command, in a communique issued last night, made no mention of the reoccupation of Roeros but admitted that the Germans had made fresh gains with the aid of planes and artillery.

Nazis Claim Capture of 300 British.

BERLIN—(AP)—Capture of some 300 British prisoners in Norway, among them a staff commander carrying important operations orders and documents, was reported today by the German high command in a communique on operations kept secret until now for military reason.

The staff commander, it was claimed, was one of nearly 200 prisoners taken in the first encounter between German and British troops in a surprise German attack on Lillehammer April 22-23.

The British, the communique said, were advancing from Andalsnes, their landing base, and were dispersed and fled, leaving arms and equipment behind.

Ex-Governor's Wife In City

MRS. GEORGE WHITE

MRS. WHITE CAMPAIGNING, HAS LOTS OF FUN ON VISIT HERE

By JANE WILLIAMS

Mrs. George White of Marietta, who is campaigning for her favorite candidate in the primary gubernatorial race, dropped into Mansfield yesterday afternoon for an informal visit with friends of the former governor, and had so much fun that she came back against last night—after a late-afternoon meeting and tea in Ashland.

Mrs. White is campaigning for her husband for just one reason and it isn't politics. "If George were running a farm I'd milk the cows and if he ran a grocery store, I'd be weighing up potatoes and beans," she told a group of women yesterday at the Leland hotel. "As it happens, he's a primary candidate for governor, he's in the midst of a campaign—and I'm campaigning."

The small, brunet wife of the ex-governor admits that's she's no great shakes as a politician. "I don't know just what to do," she said a little plaintively yesterday. "I get into a group of women and I start out talking about George's record during his two administrations, how he started the first state division for aid for the aged and the first relief set-up and I think I'm getting along fine, and first thing I know, I'm talking about the baby and giving my recipe for smothered chicken which has come down from Great-Grandmother Zane."

Incidentally, that recipe for smothered chicken is something for which any normal woman would sell her vote. Great-Grandmother Zane of the Zanesville Zanes knew her chicken.

Mrs. White is as feminine as a powder-puff. She has the best intentions in the world of talking about her husband's campaign, but it's more fun to talk about her family.

She is, as everyone knows, years younger than her husband. In fact she is just 43 years old while her oldest step-son is 39. "George's children call me 'Steppie' which is short for step-mother," she said.

Mrs. White comes very close to giggling when she tells that her two-year-old son, Zane, learned to shake hands before he could wave bye-bye. "Just a chip off the old the politician," she said.

She came to Mansfield yesterday as an emissary of good will from her husband.

ing that by its acts, conduct and orders for military resistance it had "created a state of war between Norway and the German reich."

Another clause gave the German military and civil commands the right to abrogate Norwegian law whenever they deem it necessary.

Hitler was careful, however, to retain for himself all fundamental decisions regarding Norway. Terboven and the German commander-in-chief in Norway, General Nikolaus von Falkenhorst, must operate along guiding lines laid down by the fuehrer or two of his appointees, Dr. Hans Lammers, the secretary of the chancellery, and Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of the high command.

The Norwegian administrative council, formed in Oslo after the invasion with Ingolf Christensen as head, was left in the position merely to carry out orders from Terboven and Von Falkenhorst.

(A Norwegian proclamation issued from secret headquarters declared the council was not representative of the legal Norwegian government and that no basis existed for negotiations with Germany as long as German troops remained in Norway.)

IN STATE MEET

Galion High School Musicians Enter Oberlin Contest.

GALION—Galion high school music department students participated today in the state solo and ensemble contest at Oberlin college.

Contestants include: Gale Shriner, violin sool; the trumpet trio of Keneth Miller, Paul Schnegelsberger and Gene Cronenwett; and the clarinet quartet, Jean Huy, Evelyn Holderness, June Merkel and Betty Carleton.

Entrance in the contest was gained when these students received a rating of superior or excellent in the district contest, at Bellvue.

TWO NAMED ON BOARD TO FIX GAS REBATES

Final Negotiation Planned In Settlement of Claims on Millersburg Company.

MILLERSBURG—Elmo M. Estill, local attorney, and Elmer C. Blum, executive of the Briar Hill Stone company, have been appointed by Mayor Robert Hallam to comprise two thirds of a committee which will meet soon to appraise and judge claims which have been filed with the Ohio Gas Light and Coke company of Millersburg.

Until actual payment of rebates is made, this will be the final negotiation in the settlement of a dispute between the gas company here and consumers of Millersburg and Killbuck which originated last January.

Consumers at that time protested the high rates of their bills and the low pressure obtainable.

The two men named will represent the consumers and will meet with an official of the gas company to weigh the claims which have been filed. Justification of claims will be based on assessments for the corresponding period in 1939.

LICENSE FUNDS

Holmes county has received $18,180 made by distribution of auto license money from the state bureau of motor vehicles. The amount received is the equivalent of 47 per cent of the tag money collected in this county.

Of this amount, Holmes county will pay out $6,312.50 to its districts as follows; Glenmont, $175; Killbuck, $387.50; Holmesville, $225; Millersburg, $1,250; Nashville, $100; and unincorporated villages and townships, $4,175.

TO SELL BONDS

Bonds will be sold by the village of Nashville for waterworks purposes on May 18th in the amount of $860.00.

BUCYRUS HIGH SENIORS WIN

Students Victors In College Scholarship Tests In Which 110 Competed.

BUCYRUS—Two Bucyrus high school seniors received $100 scholarships by virtue of placing first in the annual scholarship tests conducted at Heidelberg college in Tiffin last Saturday.

Miss Martha Wyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wyer, placed first in French and Charles Ross, son of Dr. and Mrs. C. A. Ross, placed first in mathematics.

William Lahman, senior at Holmes-Liberty, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lahman, placed fourth in the English tests.

One hundred and ten high school seniors took part.

BUCYRDS — Robert L. Fegley paid a fine of $5 and costs after pleading guilty to a charge of assault and battery on an affidavit filed by Max Reber, Weaver hotel employe, in the court of Mayor William Whiteamire, Friday. The case grew out of a fracas in front of the Weaver hotel.

Put Money In Dress.

Miss Hutzelman said she took her entire savings including $100 in bills, two $20 gold pieces and two $5 gold pieces and placed them in the sack which the elder woman placed in her dress.

More prayer followed and then the pair left after placing the sack on a stand with instructions to Miss Hutzelman that it was to be left there until 5 p. m. if she was to receive the "special benefits" for which they had prayed.

Police said they were told that shortly after the women fled, Miss Hutzelman opened the sack and found nothing but the pieces of paper.

Miss Hutzelman, was receiving a pension from the government, her father having served in the Civil war. She was saving the money from her meager income to pay funeral expenses for a brother who died a few months ago.

Detective Lee J. Remy described the ruse as an "old con game" in which two identical sacks are used to rob the intended victim.

CHURCH FIRE

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The $125,000 First Methodist church on Columbus' east side was damaged by fire last night, the loss including a $16,000 organ, pews, altar and several expensive stained glass windows. Cause of the blaze was not determined.

No. Six Team Wins Moose Bowling Title

Young Sets Individual Pace With 668; Ed Meder Hits 667 Score.

THE MOOSE NO. 6 TEAM today is resting easily in the throne chair of the Moose Home Bowling league.

Although they dropped two games to the No. 1 club, in the loop's final games at the Meder alleys last night, the No. 6 keglers held too large a lead for anyone to threaten to take the league championship away from them.

Farrell Hipp smashed out a spectacular 648 to pace the new champions. He collected his total on games of 231, 198 and 219.

Brig Young and Ed Meder waged a battle for individual honors in the league last night, and threatened to overtake Art Hilborn's three-game record of 671.

* * *

Young piled up a brilliant 668, and Meder followed with a 667. Young had games of 235, 190 and 243, while Meder knocked down 232, 228 and 207 pins.

Dodds Second In Penn Race

Ashland College Runner Places In Two-Mile.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Headlined by a special mile race matching three of the nation's outstanding performers, the 46th annual Penn relay carnival reaches its climax today.

The meet record for the special mile appeared to be the only major event mark threatened. Chuck Fenske, Gene Venzke and Walter Mehl, the three rivals, might collaborate to better the 4:11.8 time set by Glenn Cunningham in 1934.

Two runners and two relay teams from Ohio placed yesterday.

Gil Dodds of Ashland college, captured second in the finals of the two-mile run. Jack Sulzman, Ohio State, qualified, but failed to place in the 400-meter hurdles.

Ohio State placed second in the college medley relay and Xavier won third place in the finals of quarter mile college relay.

MANSFIELD baseball fans will have their first chance to see the 1940 Mansfield Braves in action when two teams from the squad of 32 tangle in a seven-inning contest at 1:30 p. m. Sunday at the Fairground.

Faced with the task of selecting 20 players from the group in the next three days, Manager Dewey Stover expects this regulation game to assist him in naming the players for the opening game.

Unable to send his squad through stiff workouts until this week, Stover today has a good idea who'll remain, but he wants to give every prospect a chance.

With opening night less than a week away—the Braves entertain the Lima Pandas Wednesday night at the Fairground—Stover will endeavor to have the top 20 ready for duty.

Club officials today were preparing to handle a record crowd at the opener. A reduction in the price of admission — it'll be 40 cents—is expected to draw every fan to the park. A trophy will be awarded by the league to the team drawing the largest opening game crowd per capita of its city.

While Stover will not give any definite idea as to who will be in the starting lineup, he believes he'll be able to release the information by Monday.

Teams Vie for Start In Race

Association Teams Work Over-Time for Lead.

The American association teams are working overtime these days in an effort to get away to a running start in the pennant race. Three of yesterday's four games went into extra innings.

Minneapolis took over first place with a 10 to 9 decision over Toledo which was decided in the 14th inning. The Millers piled up a 5-0 margin for young Mickey Haefner but the Mudhens jumped into the lead with six runs in the seventh and eighth innings. A misjudged fly enabled Minneapolis to tie the score.

* * *

Each scored a run in the 12th and stayed even with two runs apiece in the 13th. Johnny Lucadello's error in the 14th on a double play ball set the stage for Pinch Hitter Fabian Gaffke's game-winning single.

Louisville outlasted Kansas City for a 6 to 5 victory in 16 innings.

Gil Brack's home run with two out in the 12th inning gave St. Paul a 5 to 4 victory over Columbus after the Redbirds had outhit the Saints, 13 to 7. Columbus used three pitchers while Art Herring stayed the Saints.

Milwaukee defeated Indianapolis, 3 to 2.

FALLS TO DEATH

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Paul Taylor, 24-year-old concert director for the Columbia broadcasting system, fell to his death yesterday from the 16th floor of the Hotel Wellington. Taylor and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Taylor, of Buchanan, W. Va., had checked into the hotel only a few minutes earlier. The parents said that Taylor was suffering from a nervous ailment and hospital treatment had been planned.

MILWAUKEE—Maurice (The Angel) Tillet 205, France, threw Danno O'Mahoney, 235, Ireland, two straight falls.

Paul Junior Still Boasts No K. O.

BOSTON —(AP)— Thanks to a merciful referee and Champion Henry Armstrong's tolerance, Paul Junior, courageous Lewiston, Me., battler, was able to boast anew today that he never has been knocked out officially in any of the 300-odd bouts he has fought during his 10 years in the professional prize ring.

But the 30-year-old Junior stepped far out of his class when he faced off against the fast-stepping Armstrong, who successfully defended his world welterweight title at Boston Garden last for a $15,000 guarantee.

Armstrong, in the opinion of most of the 16,469 spectators, could have settled the issue in the very first round if he had desired but he was obliging enuogh to prolong the scheduled 15-round title match until the 65th second of the seventh round when Referee Johnny Martin halted the action.

Although Junior is the holder of the New England lightweight title, he actually weighed more than defending champion, 141 pounds to 139½. Junior was accompanied here by about 5,000 of his Maine admirers, one of whom, Owen F. Shields, 71, of Saco, Me., collapsed in his seat and died of a heart attack shortly after in dressing room.

Club Back to See If River Lets It Play

Bucky Walters to Toe Hill for Reds.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — With stealthy steps and heavy hearts, the Cincinnati Reds came home from a brief but highly unsatisfactory road trip today to see if their ball park was fit for its accustomed use.

* * *

The Ohio river which chased two games out of the park Tuesday and Wednesday, was receding slowly from the crest that covered even the pitcher's mound and Groundskeeper Matty Schwab kept his fire hose siphons going all night to speed the parting guest. General Manager Warren C. Giles promised to make up his mind at 10 a. m. whether today's game with the Pittsburgh Pirates could be played.

Bucky Walters, whose famous sinker ball would have sunk "full 40 fathom deep" had he tried to pitch as scheduled Tuesday, and either Max Butcher or Johnny Lanning are the hurlers of the day.

About the only thing Manager Bill McKechnie could be happy over as a result of the brief jaunt to Chicago was the knowledge that Joe Beggs was a good swap for the departed Lee Grissom. Joe, who came over from the New York Yankees' Newark farm, pitched about eight fine innings of baseball yesterday. The only trouble was he didn't start the game.

Gene Thompson did and what with three walks, a single, and Bill Nicholson's home run with the bases loaded, five runs were in and not a man was out. Joe took up there and allowed only one more run until Johnny Hutchings relieved him in the ninth.

Meanwhile Claude Passeau gave the Reds little to work on and the final score was 6 to 2.

* * *

It evened the Reds and Cubs up on the season so far, with two games apiece. The game was the first in which relief pitchers had to be used by the Reds and McKechnie was glad to know he had a couple.

Heroes and Goats

(By International News Service)

HEROES — Bill Nicholson, Chicago Cub outfielder, whose first inning homer with the bases loaded gave Chicago its second straight win over Cincinnati; Harry Lavagetto, Brooklyn infielder, who also homered with the bases loaded as the Dodgers scored their sixth straight victory.

GOATS — Junior Thompson, Cincinnati pitcher, who failed to get a Cub player out before retiring to the showers. Red Rolfe's bobble of a possible double-play grounder which gave Boston two runs and paved the way for the Yankees' defeat.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Torn from a sports writer's notebook: From Sen. A. B. (Happy) Chandler of Kentucky comes word that the bluegrass boys are just about ready to rate Colonel Ed Bradley's Bimelech as the best thoroughbred the state has produced since Man O' War.

"Fifteen or twenty of my friends called me up after Bimmy won at Keeneland," the senator said, "to tell me that he not only would win the derby next week, but in record time" . . . that'll take a lot of running, because Twenty Grand once made the mile and a quarter trip in 2:01.4.

Don Meade's reinstatement by the Kentucky Racing commission leaves Illinois as the only state in which he can't ride . . . Meade will shoot for his second derby victory astride Bashful Duck. . . . Gene Sarazen belongs to golf's old brigade of haberdashery as well as age . . . Gene still clings to plus-four knickers for tournament wear . . . brought them back in the days when they were fashionable and, being a man of thrift, vows he'll wear them out no matter what the galleries think. . . .

Wilbur Shaw's suggestion that pari-mutuel machines be installed at the Indianapolis speedway for the benefit of those who would like to bet on the 500 mile race, never will be adopted . . . the officials of the track know what a howl of protest would arise if a heavily backed driver happened to be killed.

Along Broadway, where there is many a good spender, Joe Jacobs was known as the "fastest man with a dollar" of the all . . . Joe always liked to be paid in cash . . . said he didn't like to lose the time from spending that went with cashing a check . . . his elevation of Galento from a fifth rate club fighter, with a record of defeats as long as here to yonder, to a challenger for the heavyweight title will stand as one of the greatest managerial feats of all time.

The only modern rival was Joe Gould's work with dockwalloper Jimmy Braddock, and don't be surprised if Gould takes over the handling of Galento. Prosperity Note: The betting window that draws the longest line at the Jamaica track is the one that deals in $100 straight tickets.

Courses Open This Week-End

Coolridge, Possum Run Ready for Golfers.

Coolridge golf course officially opened this afternoon and Possum Run will open its course for patrons tomorrow, managers of the two clubs announced today.

After a seige of cold weather, managers Art Fovargue, of Coolridge, and Irish McGee, Possum Run, expressed sighs of relief today as they took a good look at old Sol. The two courses had been closed longer than usual this year by cold and rainy weather.

McGee reported today that Ted Etzel had shot a 35 for nine holes and Frank Cipris had tallied a 36 on the same circuit at Possum Run. Thirty-six is par for the nine holes.

Westbrook has not yet set an official opening date, Jock Collins said today.

FISHING FOR FUN

Tips On Casting: 5

By MILTON KRAFT
(National All-Around Champion)

Milton Kraft, casting champion, displays some of the equipment of the sport. It includes a rod with handle minutely carved to suit his grip, a delicately tapered line and a reel so sensitive that a pencil mark throws it off balance. Sun-glasses eliminate the glare of the water.

* * * * *

TOURNAMENT CASTING

EXPERT CASTING can take just as strong a hold on its followers as any other sport. A constantly increasing number of persons of all ages and both sexes engage in it and large fields compete in tournaments staged under the National Association of Angling and Casting Clubs.

* * * * *

A tournament caster is a fisherman who spends his off-season spare time casting at 30-inch, floating rings for scores instead of the rings made by rising fish in streams or lakes. The angler who thus improves his skill will not only get vastly more satisfaction out of actual fishing, but may find a new and keen source of pleasure.

* * * * *

Most of the fishing tackle sold today first saw daylight on a casting platform. The tournament caster is constantly trying to increase his score, and fly lines, rods and reels receive more use and abuse in one tournament season than the fisherman will give his equipment during his entire life.

* * * * *

The very delicacy and precision of tournament casting makes it difficult to condense advanced instruction into a brief article. When the beginner has been grounded in good form, and preferably has worked out with skilled company that can correct his faults, he will acquire an instinctive "feel" for his rod and line similar to that which a high-grade golfer has for his clubs. His accuracy and distance will improve and he can work along toward a championship just as far as his ability takes him.

* * * * *

Casting for scores differs from casting for fish in that every cast counts. The fisherman can laugh off a poor cast and try again. But with the eagle-eyed judges every flick of that line goes down on the score card, and when the competition is over you know just how good you are—or aren't.

Indians Open Battle For Lead In League

DETROIT — (AP) — Shortly after the American league season opened Manager Oscar Vitt sized up his Indians as a better defensive club and commented:

"Well, we ought to win the close ones this year."

The Indians, tied for first place with Detroit and Boston, have followed the forecast rather closely by taking their five victories by scores of 1 to 0, 4 to 0, 5 to 2, 6-4 and 3 to 1.

The club also has proved that when it loses, it's always a thorough job. The first setback was by 12 to 2 and yesterday Chicago walloped the Indians, 11 to 1.

Vitt nominated Willis Hudlin to put the club back in winning ways today in the opener of a three-game series with the Tigers. Rookie Harold Newhauser or Schoolboy Rowe were Detroit hurling possibilities.

The White Sox tagged Johnny Allen for four runs in the first six innings and finally chased him to the showers with a seven-run attack in the seventh. Joe Dobson and Bill Zuber finished the game.

Thornton (Lefty) Lee meanwhile limited Cleveland to four hits.

Rollie Hemsley was hit on the hand by a foul tip and relinquished catching duties to the inexperienced Hank Helf in the eighth. He was expected to be ready for the Detroit series, however.

* * *

Rollie's narrow escape from a serious injury came as Indian officials reiterated they had had no word from their other veteran catcher, holdout Frankie Pytlak. Pytlak was reported in Cleveland for the Chicago series, but apparently no contract negotiations were carried on.

* * *

Club officials announced that three right-handed pitchers had been farmed out for more experience. Calvin Dorsett was sent to Milwaukee of the American association, and Don Pulford and Earl Center to Wilkes-Barre of the New York-Pennsylvania league.

Team Antics Vanish

Brooklyn Dodgers Have Turned Mighty Respectable, Writer Moans.

By BILL WHITE

THE frantic antics of Brooklyn's daffiness boys apparently have vanished from the baseball scene and the Dodgers, darn 'em, have turned respectable.

That seems unfair. Visions of pitchers winding up while men were on base, of three Dodgers all trying to occupy the same base, or of outfielders catching fly balls with their heads used to be an integral part of the game. But the Dodgers are no longer daffy—they're downright dangerous.

How else would you explain Brooklyn being the only undefeated team in the majors, with six straight victories, climaxed by yesterday's 6-0 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies?

Pressing the Dodgers for top honors in the senior circuit are their hated inter-borough rivals, the Terry Giants, and the rejuvenated Pittsburgh Pirates. The Dodgers collide with the Giants today.

The Giants won their fourth in a row, 5-3, over the hapless Boston Bees yesterday as Pinch Hitter Joe Moore doubled to send in the winning two runs. The Pirates, behind Mace Brown's 10-hit hurling, slaughtered the St. Louis Cardinals, 10-4.

The Cincinnati Reds, defending league champions, were shocked by a 6-2 setback at the hands of the Chicago Cubs, whose Claude Passeau limited them to five hits while Billy Nicholson went on a batting spree, getting a homer, double and single to win the game almost single-handedly.

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

Each day at dusk, during the summer months, literally millions of bats swoop out of the Carlsbad Caverns in New Mexico to forage for food. In one night they consume tons of beetles and other pests, thereby proving of enormous value to farmers.

* * *

Few dyed-in-the-wool fishermen ever find enough time to enjoy their favorite sport. A Johnson Sea Horse Outboard Motor gives you more fishing hours. It gets you to the best spots quicker and without effort. It saves tedious hours of rowing. Let Yuncker's tell you more about the many new 1940 models, for as little as $49.50 F.O.B. factory.

* * *

There are no snakes whatever in New Zealand, and their importation into that country, even for zoological uses, is strictly prohibited.

* * *

For many years the danger of taking refuge under a tree during a storm has been widely stressed. For water passing down branches and trunk of a tree affords a good conductor for lightning. Even the drip of water from a tree is dangerous in a storm.

* * *

Every fisherman or fisherwoman should have a good tackle box, to keep the many articles of tackle together and in good order. Yuncker's have just received a new shipment of new streamlined models, in a wide range of sizes and prices. Look them over the next time you're down this way.

* * *

The hearing of the long-eared bat of West Virginia, is so sensitive that a very loud noise, such as a thunderclap or a gunshot, will knock it unconscious.

* * *

When it is necessary to shoot at night, wet a finger and run it down along the top of the rifle barrel. The moisture reflects light from the stars or moon and makes it possible to see much more clearly.

● They—and many others—recognized the value of beer—for food—for health—and for temperance.

Good beer and good brewers travel in good company thru the generations—and Koerber—mindful of the tradition of beer as a quality drink for all—has not been remiss.

Into Koerber's Pilsener we put not only the best ingredients, the greatest skill of master brewers, and careful sanitation and aging, but pride of craft, a due regard for public welfare, a proper respect for temperance.

● It's a master brew...by masters...a new beer under a new label...that is winning increasing favor.

PAM— "On the Level!" By A. W. Brewerton

COLONEL CAREY WAS COMPLETELY DUMB-FOUNDED BY THE UNEXPECTED PHONE CALL!
HUNG UP! WHAT CAN IT MEAN? SHE TALKED SO RAPIDLY, CUT OFF SO QUICKLY, I DIDN'T HAVE A CHANCE TO SAY A WORD!
4-27
PAMELA IS SAFE, SHE SAID!-"I AM HER FRIEND"-AM GOING TO HELP HER"-OH! CAN IT REALLY BE POSSIBLE-BE TRUE?
SHORTLY AFTER, DONOVAN, COL. CAREY'S DETECTIVE FRIEND, ENTERS TO REPORT NO PROGRESS, AND THE DISTRACTED COLONEL TELLS HIM OF THE STRANGE PHONE CALL!
"PRETEND TO COMPLY WITH THEIR DEMANDS', SHE SAID-"TILL YOU HEAR FROM ME AGAIN"!
MY HUNCH IS IT'S ON THE LEVEL-NO ONE WOULD HAVE REASON TO DO SUCH A THING-FOR A JOKE!
AND A LITTLE LATER...
DAVID! -OH, I'M SO GLAD YOU'VE COME!
CLARE, WHAT'S HAPPENED? -WHERE IS PAM?
SO GORDON RETURNS TO TOWN!
-AND IT WAS THE LOVE OF PAM THAT BROUGHT HIM!

SALES REPORT GIVES MARKET NEW COURAGE

Early Trading Prices Uneven But Nation's Commercial Status Brighter.

NEW YORK—(AP) Early prices in today's stock market were slightly uneven.

Market encouragement was provided by the federal reserve summary disclosing the country's department store sales, for the week ended April 20, topped the like period last year by 7 per cent. It was the best year-to-year comparison since the week of March 23.

Notice was taken of the department of commerce estimate that merchandise exports in March exceeded the same month a year ago by 31 per cent and the comparable 1938 period by 27 per cent.

THEATERS

du Maurier's "Rebecca."

Against a background of chilling mystery and eeriness, the film "Rebecca," best-selling novel by Daphne du Maurier, will have its first showing in Mansfield today at the Ohio theater. Laurence Olivier and Joan Fontaine are in the leading roles while the featured supporting cast includes Judith Anderson, George Sanders, Nigel Bruce, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny and Florence Bates. Forty different sets representing the picturesque backgrounds of the story were constructed for the film. The largest depicts the Tudor estate known at Manderley.

Bromfield Film Story.

Tonight at 1:30 p. m. Dr. Silkini will give a "Ghost Show" at the Madison theater on the stage. "It All Came True," film version of the famous Louis Bromfield story, will open today with Ann Sheridan in the starring role, and Jeffrey Lynn, Humphrey Bogart and Zazu Pitts featured with her. Bromfield, native author of many fine novels, deals with the hopes and disappointments of a group of people living in a New York boarding house, in this recent work.

Marx Bros. Return.

The film version of the famous Broadway hit "Room Service," which opens Sunday at the Majestic theater, has probably been less altered from the original than any other play ever brought to the screen. The three Marx Bros. furnish the excitement and Lucille Ball the romantic interest. Anne Shirley and Lee Bowman make their initial romantic appearance in the vivid drama of a country doctor, "A Man to Remember."

Dr. Kildare Series.

Beginning Sunday at the Ritz theater will be "The Secret of Dr. Kildare" with Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore and Helen Gilbert in the cast. The feature attraction will be "Rancho Grande," with June Storey and Mary Lee supporting the star, Gene Autrey. Autrey, foreman of the Rancho Grande, is distressed when he learns that Kay and Tom Dodge, madcap heirs to the ranch, are enroute there to play away their time. Much action takes place when Gene trys to save the ranch from foreclosure.

Mystery Horror.

Bela Lugosi has the leading role in "The Human Monster" which opens Sunday for a four-day run at the Park theater. This film is based on Edgar Wallace's gripping novel "Dark Eyes of London." Lugosi is seen as Dr. Orloff, bloodmad, scientist, who in his lust for gold and power, traps his unsuspecting victims by means of a sinister insurance racket. "Village Barn Dance" is the co-feature with George Barbier and Esther Dale in the comedy roles.

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

We have two fine buys in large diamonds. Let us show them to you. C. W. Laubscher, Basement Citizens Bank.

Ill At Home—T. A. Seeburger, 260 South Main street, is confined to his home with a case of influenza.

Reports Theft—The theft of a $15 kit of tools from his truck while parked on Sherman avenue near Marion avenue, was reported to police yesterday by R. B. Oyler, 17 South Benton street.

Mayor to Speak—Mayor William J. Locke is to be the speaker at next Tuesday's meeting of the Rotary club, to be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. His subject will be "Your City." John W. Cook will be program chairman.

Permits Issued—Two building permits with a total estimated valuation of $7,650 were issued at city hall today to the Modern Homes company, which plans the construction of a $4,150 residence at 244 Greenlawn avenue, and a $3,500 home at 270 Greenlawn avenue.

Faces Charges—William T. Hauenstein, Wooster, will be arraigned in municipal court Monday on a charge of reckless driving. He was released on $25 bond last night following his arrest by police who accused him of driving 45 miles an hour on Park avenue east.

Driver Fined—Duane Petee, 27 Penn avenue, who pleaded guilty to a charge of reckless driving when arraigned in municipal court earlier this week was fined $20 and costs today. Petee lost control of his car on South Foster street last Saturday night and ran over the lawn at the Richland County Children's home.
